

GERMAN EDITORS SAY BREAK WITH U. S. IS SHUNNED

Declare That Submarine Warfare Will Cease if England Lifts Embargo on Food.

In bringing a sacrifice, but such sacrifice must not touch her very existence. Just as long as England makes war against us to the hilt we will not care to discontinue the most energetic use of our most effective naval weapon. America will not be able to obtain such an abandonment from us. Only when England begins to let neutral ships through to Germany can we change the policy and form of our submarine warfare.

Urges Speedy Action.

"To help fulfill these conditions is in the interest of the neutrals and above all of America, which is the greatest among the neutrals. German's U boats are fighting for the freedom of the seas."

COCOANUT OIL FINE FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, the less soap you use the better.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulified coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulified coconut oil at almost any drug store. It is very cheap and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—ADV.

and against the unnatural claims of England to the world dictatorship, and for that reason alone, America should regard them with a friendly eye and then will not be difficult, through warnings given to the passengers, to prevent a repetition of the regrettable cases of death of Americans in the war zone.

"Germany's reputation should be a sufficient guarantee that our Government will do everything possible in this war which was forced upon us, to prevent any harm coming to the interests and to the lives of Americans. The American press, if it helps to tear the meshes of the network of 'untruth' launched against us, can do much toward removing the crisis which has come into the German-American relations. But there should be no delay. It is time for speedy action."

Frankfort Gazette Editor Says Americans Do Not Understand.
"Germany's relations to America will not be determined only by sober political and economical considerations, but, as is characteristic of the German people, very strongly—I might almost say too strongly—through their feelings and sentimental nature," said Dr. August Stein, political editor-in-chief of the Frankfort Gazette.

Dr. Stein directs the political policy of one of the most important and independent papers in Germany from his headquarters in Berlin. Although comparatively little known abroad, he is one of the most influential figures in the political press of Germany.

"America is dear to our hearts," he continued. "From childhood America has familiar to us, yes, intimate, the brotherhood in arms that existed with the great King of Prussia during our revolution, through the names and deeds of German men who played an important role in the Civil War, and later in the political life of America, of whom we are proud."

"Your Fatherland is a country where live the greatest number of Germans outside of the German empire. Here there are not many German families who have moved their relatives on the other side of the Atlantic. We may be inclined to overestimate this sort of blood brotherhood, which the German element in America exists between the two countries, but through our hearts, our fancy and our imagination it affects our political judgment. For that reason, we deplored that in America so much belief and credit should be given to the campaign of lies, false accusation and charges opened there against us and that the sympathy of so large a part of the American people appears to be with our enemies."

Misunderstood by Americans.

"The number who study or understand international law is small everywhere. Therefore, it was with deep pain and sorrow for the great mass of German people, also for the educated, that neutral America should continuously furnish our enemies arms and ammunition, which, as a matter of fact, is prolonging the war. And just as little does public opinion in Germany grasp why there is so little understanding and comprehension in America of our submarine war and its necessity, and so little, I might say, of sympathy for a nation which is battling for its very existence against tremendous odds and uses this new arm which it has and which the principles of international law will recognize just as the airship and aeroplane succeeded in getting such recognition."

"A vast majority of the German people earnestly wish there were more understanding and comprehension in the United States for our struggle, and which is not alone for the existence of our own people."

"There is not a German who wishes a conflict with the United States. I might say there are none who would not deplore such a step. We are constantly counting upon an understanding and agreement of the questions which have arisen from the submarine war, but such an understanding as will not make it necessary for Germany to give up submarine warfare."

Ullstein Journalist Says Submarines Are Essential.

"It is entirely out of the question that the German Government should abandon its submarine war against British commerce. I haven't the slightest doubt that the German people in entirety would unanimously withhold their sanction of such a course by the Government," declared George Bernhard, director-general and editor-in-chief of the Ullstein newspapers, which form one of the largest concerns in Germany.

Herr Bernhard's editorials are one of the features of the Democratic, Radical and Progressive Morgenpost, Abendpost, Berliner Zeitung am Mittag and the Liberal Vossische Zeitung, which was founded in 1704.

"Although unacquainted with the Government's intentions, I cannot believe this is its purpose, unless Great Britain abandons her attitude maintained hitherto concerning the admission of foodstuffs and such merchandise as neutrals are entitled to export to Germany. Doubtless the rupture of friendly relations between America and Germany would produce a considerable moral effect, but our military situation in this war, where the fighting armies number millions, certainly would not be allowed thereby."

"Happily, I do not see any reason to cause such a rupture, which is desired neither by the German Government, the German people, nor by the American Government or people. Without knowing the nature of the answer, I do not doubt but our responsible authorities are prepared to meet the American Government regarding the safety of American citizens on the sea as far as possible without affecting effectively that arm of warfare chosen by us."

Puts Blame on Great Britain.

"Pray remember that this warfare was forced on us, England began by declaring the North Sea a war zone. America did not object. That sense of justice for which the American people are known the world over to be possessed with will acknowledge that we had to answer in the same measure. England is bent upon starving out Germany's women and children."

"We want to protect ourselves against that scheme. We are cut off entirely from the world and if in such a situation as we are in America would undoubtedly not act differently from the way we are acting. We are fighting for our life and national existence."

"I will not touch upon the question whether or not the assistance brought to the allies by American supplies of arms and ammunition is formally legitimate, but the fact remains that we are debarred of such assistance. Through this fact alone we are at a very great disadvantage as against the allies. From manifold occurrences in this war the attitude of America toward us is probably the greatest surprise. We harbor the belief that the traditional friendship and extensive commercial, intellectual and mutual relations which existed between the United States and Germany for a century and a half justified us in expecting we would be better known by America than is obviously the case. America has allowed herself to be biased against us by adroitly handled influences and certain stock phrases."

Herr Bernhard appeared to think American opinion of Germany had been affected considerably by the belief in many places that the German people are living in a state of political bondage and servitude.

"Americans are apt to forget that the suffrage of the German Reichstag, which has decided exclusively the most vital issues of the empire, is more free than the franchise of any Parliament in the world. It is more general than the franchise for the English Parliament, whose constituents form only a comparatively small part of the English people. If, nevertheless, the Reichstag does not possess today the same authority as against the Government as other European countries, the reason is to be found in the fact that it was created only 44 years ago and that the independent political life of Germany has existed only since three generations."

"Dear in mind how many centuries of systematic development British parliamentary life had to go through before it acquired a dominating position." Herr Bernhard frankly admitted that the Prussian Parliament was behind the times, but declared that a majority of the federal states have a franchise similar to the Reichstag, and that Prussia, too, would make parliamentary progress and alter its system afterward.

Cologne Editor Says German-American Break Would Be Madness.
Dr. Fosse, editor in chief of the Cologne Gazette, telegraphs me from Cologne as follows:

"The German people are following the American-German negotiations with great interest, confident that they will lead to an understanding. War between Germany and America would be such a mad, unscrupulous thing that no statesman could shoulder the responsibility. Germany knows that President Wilson's chief object is to enforce the principles of humanity and is prepared to support him to the fullest extent."

"On the other hand, it is naturally demanding that recognition be given to the facts and difficulties with which Germany has to battle in its terrible struggle to preserve and maintain its existence under difficulties and conditions that are unprecedented, unusual and tremendous, and that submarines and airplanes, in addition, be more recognized as weapons and arms of war wherewith Germany is endeavoring to defend itself. They are so new and peculiar that old forms of international law do not fit or apply."

"Only, if in America or here, or on both sides, it is sought to withdraw into a shell of formalistic stubbornness, will danger threaten. But it is confidently hoped that America, instead of brutally cutting the tangle of difficulties with a declaration of war, will bring honor to it and find a solution that will work for the welfare of humanity."

A sale that could not happen anywhere but at Garland's. No other store in the Middle West, or in America has a confiding clientele large and wide enough in scope to assure a ready outlet for Dresses of the high character of these, in one-half or one-quarter the quantity. No other store could handle at one time so many Dresses. They haven't the space nor facilities to swing a sale of this magnitude. That is why the manufacturers look to Garland's for an outlet when they are overstocked with thousands of Dresses of the higher class.

And now, before going into details of the Dresses themselves, we'll tell briefly of the "hows" and "whys" of this gigantic purchase. You all know that weather conditions have been against the sale of Summer Dresses—so much rain, weather cool, cut off the usual demand. This manufacturer, whose lines we control for St. Louis, found himself tremendously overstocked—several thousand high-class Dresses, and no orders coming in.

His only course was a sacrifice to realize quick, ready cash. Our buyer was on the spot and promptly recognized the opportunity as unusual. The Dresses being just what our discriminating trade wants, and the price being so much below the actual value, the deal was quickly closed for the entire stock. It's the biggest purchase of High-Class Dresses ever made by any single house, anywhere, at any time, under any conditions.

Now the Most Important Part—the Dresses

There is not a popular high-class Summer dress fabric that is lacking. Every desired color with hundreds of smart combinations of colors, black and white combinations and all white fabrics.

Dolly Varden Crepes

Some of the linens cost $1.00 yard, the voiles and crepes cost from 60c to 85c a yard, and it takes 10 yards for a dress in the present styles—the making would cost more—the trimmings still more. So you see what you are getting for $2.98.

We'll not attempt a description of a lot of Dresses, in which the numbers run into the thousands and the styles into the hundreds. Every style is new. See the quaint Martha Washington and Elizabethan collars, Quaker and Puritan collars, jaunty bolero and belted coat effects, Tuxedo and vestee conceits, fluffy ruffles and flounces, some trimmed in a wealth of laces and embroidery, frills and puffs, hand smoking, pleatings, etc., etc.

See them. There is a size for everybody, in every style; there's a style and color for every taste and personality. Not a Dress in the lot made to sell under $10.50, a good percentage are worth $12.50, $15.00 and $16.50. All go at the one price, without reserve or restriction.

NOISY OPENING OF SALOON CAUSES ITS EARLY CLOSE

Customers Caught on Car Tracks After Midnight Interrupt Traffic.

The "grand opening" of John J. Langan's saloon, 227 Pendleton avenue, the night of June 26, will result in a grand closing, under an order issued today by Excise Commissioner Rumsay. The place will be closed until further notice, Commissioner Rumsay said.

Some who were "among those present" at the "grand opening" appeared in the Commissioner's office to tell about it. Two had discolored eyes. One hundred and seventy-five guests attended, the witnesses said, and shortly before midnight the hilarity grew into a scene of turbulent unrest, which caused a number of the bar's best customers to run out upon the Hodiarnont line tracks.

An excited private watchman telephoned to the Deer Street Police Station that the car line had been "held up by a gang." A wagon load of policemen, revolvers in hand gathered in 15 persons before they learned there had been no attempt to rob trolley passengers, but only an interruption of traffic through fights on the tracks.

The proprietor said he put the men out because they were noisy inside. Capt. Reynolds said there had been other complaints, particularly of the serving of drinks without food to women.

Neutrality Patrol Overhauled Steamer. NEW YORK, July 6.—The Old Dominion line steamer, Jefferson, outward bound, failed to stop when signaled by the Government boats on neutrality patrol at Quarantine yesterday. The torpedo boat destroyed Drayton started in pursuit and overhauled the Jefferson in the lower bay. The Jefferson was brought back to Quarantine, but was subsequently released and proceeded.

NAMING OF MEN TO MAKE POOR FUND INQUIRY AWAITED

One Is to Be Chosen From East St. Louis and Two From St. Clair County.

Appointment by Chairman Schwartz of the St. Clair County Board of Supervisors of a committee to investigate alleged laxness and extravagance in the expenditure of county funds for poor relief in East St. Louis, is awaited with interest on the East Side. The opinion is expressed that the outcome of the investigation ordered Saturday by the Board of Supervisors will depend upon the personnel of the committee to be named by Chairman Schwartz.

The committee, as directed by the board, is to be composed of one member from East St. Louis and two from the county. It is expected that the chairman will appoint a committee that will make a thorough investigation and find out how the county money is being used.

Motion for Inquiry Opposed. When Supervisor L. P. Zerewich of Lebanon brought the matter up at the board meeting Saturday and moved an investigation, Supervisor George Huilung of East St. Louis, a member of the Claims Committee, which passes on all expenditures of county money in East St. Louis for poor relief, moved to table the motion. On the aye and no vote, Chairman Schwartz said the ayes seemed to have it, but when a division was called for the motion to table was found to have been lost by the vote of 36 to 12.

When Dr. E. P. Stehl, former County Physician for East St. Louis, was asked to make a statement, he said he had made an investigation of expenditures of county funds in East St. Louis and that members of the board in East St. Louis had threatened to "get him." He cited a number of instances of apparent irregularities in the expenditure of county funds. He said he would appear before a committee at any time.

Controversy Over Instruments. In response to a question by Supervisor Zerewich, Dr. Stehl said he still had in his possession some surgical instruments and some money belonging to the county, later in the day a request from Dr. Barker, the present county physician in East St. Louis, asking the county to purchase some surgical instruments for him, was read. The request was referred to the Pauper Committee, with instructions to learn why Dr. Stehl had not turned over the instruments and money to the county when his term of office expired.

Dr. Stehl explained that the Pauper Committee had refused to turn over to him certain drugs in his office when his term closed. He said the drugs belonged to him, and that he would not turn over the surgical instruments and money until he had been given his drugs.

SPEEDER WHO TRIED TO ESCAPE FINED $60 ON TWO CHARGES

Clyde Vollmar Was Going 60 Miles an Hour, Policemen Say.

Other Antidote Got Away.

After hearing the story of an automobile chase on Tennessee avenue between Cherokee and Chippewa streets, which occurred yesterday afternoon, Police Judge Hogan today fined Clyde Vollmar of 4544 Adkins avenue $60 and costs for speeding, and an additional $10 and costs for not having a city license.

Motor cycle Patrolman Shannon said he stopped Vollmar and another speeder at Gravois and Taft avenues and that on the way to the station, the other man slowed down, complaining of engine trouble, while Vollmar dashed ahead. While Shannon was keeping up with Vollmar, the other man escaped.

Vollmar ran east to Grand avenue, the policeman said, and increased his speed until, after turning into Tennessee avenue, he was running "60 miles an hour."

He stopped after the patrolman had driven him into an alley and had collided with the rear of the car at a turn in the alley. Vollmar scoffed at the statement that his car had run 60 miles an hour, but admitted that it might have made 40. He said the man who escaped was no friend of his.

BOYS OVERTURN STOLEN AUTO

Two Are Arrested, But Other Three Escape Without Injury.

Robert Walsh, 15 years old, of 260 Montgomery street, and George Turner, 17, of 221 Cass avenue, and three other youths, were in an automobile which ran into a fence and was overturned and wrecked at Muller's Ferry on the Hall's Ferry road, at 1:30 o'clock this morning. The other three ran away. Walsh and Turner were detained by persons residing near the scene of the wreck until Constable John Mueller arrived. He arrested them on the charge of reckless driving, and locked them up in Clayton.

The automobile bore the license number 12148, issued to O. K. Grammer of 1447 Simple place. The machine was stolen from in front of his home last night, he said.

NOISY OPENING OF SALOON CAUSES ITS EARLY CLOSE

Customers Caught on Car Tracks After Midnight Interrupt Traffic.

The "grand opening" of John J. Langan's saloon, 927 Pendleton avenue, the night of June 26, will result in a grand closing, under an order issued today by Excise Commissioner Rumsay. The place will be closed until further notice, Commissioner Rumsay said.

Some who were "among those present" at the "grand opening" appeared in the Commissioner's office to tell about it. Two had discolored eyes. One hundred and seventy-five guests attended, the witnesses said, and shortly before midnight the hilarity grew into a scene of turbulence. The bar's best customers to run out upon the Hodiadon street tracks.

An excited private watchman telephoned to the West Street Police Station that the car line had been "held up by a gang." A wagon load of policemen, revolvers in hand, gathered in 15 persons before they learned there had been no attempt to rob trolley passengers, but only an interruption of traffic through fights on the tracks.

The proprietor said he put the men out because they were noisy inside. Capt. Reynolds said there had been other complaints, particularly of the serving of drinks without food to women.

Neutrality Patrol Overhauled Steamer.

NEW YORK, July 6.—The Old Dominion line steamer, Jefferson, outward bound, failed to stop when signaled by the Government boats on neutrality patrol at Quarantine yesterday. The torpedo boat destroyed Drayton started in pursuit and overhauled the Jefferson in the lower bay. The Jefferson was brought back to Quarantine, but was subsequently released and proceeded.

NAMING OF MEN TO MAKE POOR FUND INQUIRY AWAITED

One Is to Be Chosen From East St. Louis and Two From St. Clair County.

Appointment by Chairman Schwartztrauber of the St. Clair County Board of Supervisors of a committee to investigate alleged laxness and extravagance in the expenditure of county funds for poor relief in East St. Louis, is awaited with interest on the East Side. The opinion is expressed that the outcome of the investigation ordered Saturday by the Board of Supervisors will depend upon the personnel of the committee to be named by Chairman Schwartztrauber.

The committee, as directed by the board, is to be composed of one member from East St. Louis and two from the county. It is the expectation that the chairman will appoint a committee that will make a thorough investigation and find out how the county money is being used.

Motion for Inquiry Opposed. When Supervisor T. P. Zerweck of Lebanon brought the matter up at the board meeting Saturday and moved an investigation, Supervisor George Huhung of East St. Louis, a member of the Claims Committee, which passes on all expenditures of county money in East St. Louis for poor relief, moved to table the motion. On the aye and no vote, Chairman Schwartztrauber said the ayes seemed to have it, but when a division was called for the motion to table was found to have been lost by the vote of 36 to 12.

When Dr. E. P. Stiehl, former County Physician for East St. Louis, was asked to make a statement, he said he had made an investigation of expenditures of county funds in East St. Louis and that members of the board in East St. Louis had threatened to "get him." He cited a number of instances of apparent irregularities in the expenditure of county funds. He said he would appear before a committee at any time.

Controversy Over Instruments. In response to a question by Supervisor Zerweck, Dr. Stiehl said he still had in his possession some surgical instruments and some money belonging to the county. Later in the day a request from Dr. Barker, the present county physician in East St. Louis, asking the county to purchase some surgical instruments for him, was read. The request was referred to the Pauper Committee, with instructions to learn why Dr. Stiehl had not turned over the instruments and money to the county when his term of office expired.

Dr. Stiehl explained that the Pauper Committee had refused to turn over to him certain drugs in his office when his term expired. He said the drugs belonged to him, and that he would not turn over the surgical instruments and money until he had been given his drugs.

SPEEDER WHO TRIED TO ESCAPE FINED $60 ON TWO CHARGES

Clyde Vollmar Was Going 60 Miles an Hour, Policemen Say—Another Autoist Got Away.

After hearing the story of an automobile chase on Tennessee avenue between Cherokee and Chippewa streets, which occurred yesterday afternoon, Police Judge Hogan today fined Clyde Vollmar of 4554 Adkins avenue $60 and costs for speeding, and an additional $10 and costs for not having a city license.

Motor cycle Patrolman Shannon said he stopped Vollmar and another speeder at Gravois and Taft avenues and that on the way to the station, the other man slowed down, complaining of engine trouble, while Vollmar dashed ahead. While Shannon was keeping up with Vollmar, the other man escaped.

Vollmar ran east to Grand avenue, the policeman said, and increased his speed until, after turning into Tennessee avenue, he was running "60 miles an hour." He stopped after the patrolman had driven him into an alley and had collided with the rear of the car at a turn in the alley. Vollmar scoffed at the statement that his car had run 60 miles an hour, but admitted that it might have made 40. He said the man who escaped was no friend of his.

Two Are Arrested, But Other Three Escape Wounded.

Robert Walsh, 18 years old, of 2860 Montgomery street, and George Turner, 17, of 2821 Cass avenue, and three other youths, were in an automobile which ran into a fence and was overturned and wrecked at Musick's Ferry on the Hall's Ferry road, at 1:30 o'clock this morning. The other three ran away. Walsh and Turner were detained by persons residing near the scene of the wreck until Constable John Mueller arrived. He arrested them on the charge of reckless driving, and locked them up in Clayton.

The automobile bore the license number 12148, issued to O. K. Grammer of 1447 Semple place. The machine was stolen from in front of his home last night, he said.

CAPTAIN'S BRAVERY AND SKILL SAVED BRITISH STEAMSHIP

Anglo-Californian So Maneuvered Vessel That Submarine Could Not Torpedo It.

QUEENSTOWN, July 6.—The story of how the captain of another British steamship tried to have his ship and cargo from a submarine by flight and seamanship was told by survivors when the Anglo-Californian, bound from Montreal to Queenstown, and laden, presumably, with war supplies, docked here. This one succeeded where the Armenian failed.

The captain and nine sailors lay dead and the craft's superstructure was riddled by the gunfire of the German "undersea boat," but the survivors were very proud of having baffled the enemy, though he was their superior in speed.

Survivors told how Capt. Parslow stood on the bridge of the Anglo-Californian amidst a rain of shot and shrapnel directed at the movements of his ship until he was killed by a shell, and of how his place was taken by his son until British destroyers appeared and the submarine was compelled to flee.

The Anglo-Californian left Montreal for the British Isles on June 24. The submarine was sighted at 3 o'clock last Sunday morning. Capt. Parslow ordered full steam ahead and wireless calls for assistance were sent out.

All depended on maneuvers. The submarine on the surface proved to be a far speedier craft than the steamer and rapidly overhauled her, meanwhile deluging her with shells. One shot put the wireless apparatus out of action. Finding he could not escape by running for it, Capt. Parslow devoted all his attention to maneuvering his ship so as to prevent the submarine from using torpedoes effectively.

"Our captain was a brave man," said one of the mariners. "He kept his ship on the bridge, coolly giving orders as the submarine circled around us, vainly seeking to get a position from which it could give us a death blow with torpedoes. All the while the water boat continued to rain shot and shell upon us, and at times was so close that she was able to employ rifle fire effectively."

"At last one shell blew the Captain off the bridge, killing him outright and terribly mutilating him. Just before that he had given orders to launch the boats, but this was very difficult under the shell fire. Several men were struck down while working at the davits. Ultimately four boats were got overboard and were rowed away."

The son of Capt. Parslow, serving as second mate, was standing by his father's side when the latter was killed. The son was knocked down by the violence of the explosion. Springing to his feet, he seized the wheel and, as ably as his father had done, continued dodging the submarine. Another shell hit him, shattering one of the spokes of the wheel, but young Parslow remained at his post.

The wireless calls that had been sent out at the first alarm had reached those able to give more than passive assistance, and British destroyers appeared. On their approach the submarine abandoned the attack and submerged. Young Parslow was still at the wheel when the destroyers came up.

Capt. Parslow's Conception of His Duty Toward His Country. MONTREAL, July 6.—Remarks that he was on the firing line just as much as the soldiers at the front, Capt. Parslow of the British steamship Anglo-Californian on the day his ship left here on June 24, said:

"Merchant ships are a necessary link in the chain by which the British Government maintains her part in the war. Captains and seamen stick to their jobs just as men on shore do where their work is necessary."

One of Capt. Parslow's sons was killed at the front and another wounded. Prior to the outbreak of the war the Anglo-Californian belonged to the Lawther-Latta Co. and was engaged chiefly in carrying nitrates from Chile to ports in the United States.

Of her crew of 95 men, half were Canadians who were born in the British Isles. The remainder were Russian reservists.

American Rights Not Violated in Anglo-Californian Case, Officials Say. WASHINGTON, July 6.—Officials here point out that the fact that no American rights were violated in the attack by the German submarine on the British steamer Anglo-Californian, since the officers of the vessel admit their attempt to escape.

If any Americans were killed, officials contend, the case is parallel to that of the British steamer Armenian, on which several Americans lost their lives. Continued efforts of a merchantman to escape when ordered to heave to by a hostile war vessel places neutrals abroad outside the protection of their home Governments, according to the rules of international law.

O-SO-EZY Mops and O-SO-EZY Cedar Oil Polish

received Gold Medal Highest Award at PANAMA PACIFIC EXPOSITION

A deserving tribute to the many economical features of the O-So-Ezy Polish and Dust Mop and O-So-Ezy Cedar Oil Polish. O-So-Ezy Mops were also selected as the official mops of the Model Kitchen at the exposition. O-So-Ezy Mops are put out in the famous O-So-Ezy two-in-one package—two separate mops—polish mop and dust mop for $1.50, formerly sold at $2.25—a mop combination that makes cleaning easy and economical. Absolutely guaranteed.

Self Feeding—Just pour O-So-Ezy Cedar Oil Polish on the polish oil plate. It seeps evenly on to the floor, the clean, easy, economical way. Triangle Shape—Note the triangle shape that gets into the corners, cleans everywhere. Adjustable Handle—Makes it easy to get under furniture. No more tiresome bending. Mop Yarns are easily removed for cleaning or replacing. No wires to snap, bend or break—the indestructible mop.

O-So-Ezy 1916 Mop Feature

And now we have perfected the O-So-Ezy Mop by furnishing a handle with indestructible metal thread. No more annoyance caused by wooden threads wearing out. It fits the mops snug and holds them securely on the handle. No other polish mop has this metal thread. Be sure to ask for O-So-Ezy Mops. Get the mop with the metal thread handle.

O-So-Ezy Cedar Oil Polish

A polish for all uses—floors, fine furniture and automobiles. Restores the finish, lasts longest. Put up in full measure cans. 25 cents up.

O-SO-EZY MOP CO., Detroit, Mich.

Note the metal thread on the handle. This is the new 1916 O-SO-EZY feature. Used only on O-SO-EZY Mops.

GERMAN ADMIRAL ADVISES AGAINST BREAK WITH U. S.

Von Truppel Warns His Country Not to Underestimate Strength of America.

OPPOSES NAVY PUBLICISTS

If England Can't Be Humbled by Shipping War, He Would Alter Submarine Policy.

By Associated Press.
BERLIN, via London, July 6.—Admiral Oscar von Truppel, at one time Governor of Kiauchau, the German concession in the Chinese province of Shantung, captured in November by the Japanese, has contributed an article to Der Tag, warning his compatriots not to underestimate the danger of a breach with the United States, and asking them to weigh seriously the question whether the value of Germany's submarine warfare against British commerce is great enough to justify a continuance of its present form at the expense of a rupture with the transatlantic nation.

The article is remarkable not only for its open statement regarding the wide-reaching effects which the participation of America in the hostilities might exercise on the future course of the war—effects which Admiral von Truppel says are greatly underestimated in Germany—but also as a contribution from a naval officer.

All the naval publicists of Germany hitherto heard from have been devoting their energies to accelerating public opinion against any modification of the submarine campaign, and endeavoring to prevent or to limit concessions to prevent or to limit concessions to American demands in the forthcoming German note to Washington.

Compromise Is Desired.
The campaign between the advocates and the opponents of a compromise still is intense, and delivery of the note which a few days ago was scheduled for Monday or Tuesday, will probably be delayed several days.

It is hoped by those who favor a compromise that these days of additional consideration will produce a change in the attitude of the naval party, whose views thus far have been opposed to any note of a character outlined previously in these dispatches.

This was to the effect that, in all probability, the reply would embody proposals to exempt ships employed wholly or principally in passenger traffic from submarine attacks, though making them subject to stoppage and examination. The naval party, however, has been bringing heavy pressure to bear upon the Ministers engaged in consideration of the answer.

Possible Effect of War.
Admiral von Truppel, in his article in Der Tag, writes:

"A German-American war, or even a rupture of diplomatic relations, the effect of which would virtually be as great, would injure German prospects more seriously than any rupture, though America at first would be able to contribute little to the military strength of the Entente allies, except by an acceleration of the munitions supply. It could, in time, co-operate with a considerable land and sea forces, and with first-class submarines and aeroplanes, in the complete isolation of Germany.

"It also could exercise such pressure upon the few remaining neutral countries that these would probably be arrayed actively or passively among our enemies."

Admiral von Truppel discounts the stories of easier existing American agreements with Great Britain against Germany, explaining that this was most improbable, owing to American diplomatic traditions.

"But it is undeniable," he says, "in spite of President Wilson's undeniable desire to reach a peaceful solution of the problems, that the sympathies of a majority of Americans are on the side of England, and that only a spark might be necessary, under certain conditions, to kindle this feeling into a hostile outbreak."

Kernel of the Problem.
The kernel of the problem, from the German standpoint, concludes Admiral von Truppel, is contained in this question: "Can we hope, so far as we are able to foresee, to force England to its knees through submarine warfare against her commerce?"

"If the answer is in the negative," he adds, "your submarine can find better employment against hostile warships, particularly in the hunting grounds of the Mediterranean, the Dardanelles and Suez Canal. Submarine warfare against merchantmen, in that case, could be modified or abandoned to obtain a more favorable neutrality from and the friendship of America, which would be of great value to Germany after the war."

"If the answer is in the affirmative, then the law of self-preservation would justify us in using to the fullest extent our superiority in submarines, and we can calmly accept all the consequences of it."

The Kreuz Zeitung, in its weekly review, says that limitations upon submarine operations would cause wide-spread and deep agitation in Germany. It is probable, however, the newspaper adds, that, in the forthcoming note to America a form will be found which will offer a prospect of settling the question, so far as passengers are concerned.

Has Son Put Under Observation.
Columbus G. Sellers, a motorman 48 years old, of 4181 Olive street, was taken to the city hospital for observation last midnight at the request of his mother, Mrs. John W. Sellers, who told the police she feared he might try to end his life. Sellers and his wife, Mrs. Mildred Buckner Sellers, quarreled yesterday and she left the house taking with her their daughter, Lucille, 5 years old. Sellers spoke of taking poison.

MAN KILLED WITH SHOVEL IN ROW OVER WATERING HORSES

Skull of George W. Redmond, 62 Years Old Fractured in Fight by Albert Detweiler.

George W. Redmond, 62 years old, of 206 De Kalb street, was beaten to death with a shovel last night by Albert Detweiler, 33 years old, of 121 Trudeau street, in a fight that followed a quarrel over watering a team of horses. Detweiler, who is employed as a teamster by the Whaley Hauling Co., which stables its horses at 200 De Kalb street, went to Illinois yesterday on an excursion and arranged with Redmond for the latter to water his team. When he returned at 6:30 p. m. he accused Redmond of having failed to water the horses.

In the course of their quarrel Redmond struck Detweiler with a club and the latter seized a shovel and beat Redmond on the head and face. Redmond was taken to the city hospital, where it was found he had died of a fractured skull. Detweiler surrendered to the police of the Second Street District, and was taken to the city hospital.

Detweiler admitted he had been drinking.

One of Pair Escapes After Firing Several Shots at Patrolmen; $61.50 Taken From Fish Market.

P. J. Patterson of 1813 Washington avenue, at 5:45 o'clock last night, informed the police that he had seen safe robbers at work in the fish market of Frank J. Burger at 182 Franklin avenue. Two patrolmen were detailed to catch the robbers and as they approached the market they saw two men running through an alley across the street.

When they were ordered to halt the men turned and one fired several shots at the patrolmen. The other man surrendered, but the one who did the shooting escaped. The prisoner said he was Alfred Peterson, 40 years old, of 708 North Eighteenth street, and added that he knew his companion as "Joe White." He had a bottle containing nitroglycerin in his pocket.

The safe in the fish market had been blown with nitroglycerin and papers were scattered about. A sack containing $125 was on top of the safe. Burger was summoned from his home. He said $25.00 has been taken from the safe.

TURKS LOST 5000 KILLED IN ATTACKS AT DARDANELLES

15,000 Were Wounded in Action Between June 28 to July 2, British Report Says.

LONDON, July 6.—The official press bureau last night issued the following report from Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton covering the recent operations in the Dardanelles:

"About 2 a. m. (date not given), the searchlights of the destroyer Scorpion discovered half a Turkish battalion advancing near the sea northwest of Krithia. The Scorpion opened fire and few of the enemy got away.

"Simultaneously the enemy attacked a knoll, which we had captured due west of Krithia, advancing from a nullah in close formation in several lines. The attack came under artillery and machine rifle fire, the enemy losing heavily. The foremost Turks got within 40 yards of the parapet, but only a few returned. The Turks made several heavy bomb attacks during the night our troops being twice driven back a short distance. Early in the morning we regained these

German Lieutenant General Killed and Another Dies
BERLIN, via London, July 6. IUT.-GEN. GEORGE HILDEBRANDT, commander of a German Infantry division, fell in battle on July 3. He had a distinguished record and possessed iron crosses of both the first and second classes.

Another Lieutenant-General, Von Pezel, has died of an illness contracted during the campaign.

trenches by a bayonet attack. They have since been strengthened. At 5:30 a. m. 2000 Turks moving from Krithia into a ravine were scattered by machine gun fire.

"The operations reflect great credit upon the vigilance and accurate shooting of the Scorpion. The Turkish losses in the ravine were estimated at from 1500 to 2000 dead.

"About 10 p. m. on June 30, the Turks again attacked with bombs a portion of the most northerly trench captured by us on the 28th. An officer of the Gourk himself being wounded—not dangerously, as it turned out—the men became infuriated, flung all the bombs at the enemy and then charging down out of the trench used their kukris for the first time and with excellent effect. "About dawn the Turks once more attempted to attack over the open, but nearly the whole of these attacking forces, about half a battalion, were shot down and a final bomb attack failed utterly.

"Further reports from the Australian and New Zealand corps as to the enemy's attack on the 28th and 30th on our right flank state that the action was commenced with a very heavy fire from the trench until 1:30 a. m. to which our men replied only by a series of cheers. The Turks then launched their attack and came right on with bayonet and bombs. Those who succeeded in getting into our saps were instantly killed, the remainder were beat with bombs and rifle fire from the Seventh and Eighth Horse. By 2 a. m. the enemy broke and many were killed while withdrawing.

"The enemy's attack was strongest on his right. The Turks were completely taken aback by the concealed sap constructed well ahead of our main line and the dead are lying thickly in front of this. Some got into the sap, several across it. All these were wiped out by the fire from the main parapet further back.

"Following the defeat of this attack the enemy attacked at 3 a. m. on our left and 30 men came over the parapets in front of the right of Quinn's post. These were duly polished off.

Turk War Minister at Front.
Prisoners brought in state that three fresh battalions were employed in the main attack, which was made by personal order of Enver Pasha (the Turkish War Minister), who, as they definitely assert, was present in the trenches on July 2. This is confirmed by the statement of an intelligent Armenian prisoner captured on that date. According to him, stringent orders were recently issued that no further attacks were to be made, because if the Turks remained on the defensive the British would be forced to attack and would suffer severely, as the Turks themselves had suffered, but Enver Pasha, when he arrived in the northern section, overrode the instruction and orders were received by the prisoners' regiment that the Australians were to be driven into the sea.

"On July 2, after a heavy bombardment of our advanced positions by high explosives and shrapnel lasting half an hour, the enemy infantry advanced, but were driven back to the main nullah, about a mile from our front, by the accurate shooting of the Scorpion and by our rifle and machine gun fire.

"About 7 a. m. the Turkish artillery recommenced their bombardment under cover of which two battalions emerged from the nullah to the west of the most advanced trench and commenced an attack across the open, advancing in two regular lines.

"At the outset a very effective shrapnel fire from the trench battery, Royal Field Artillery, caused great execution among the attacking force. Gurkha supports then advanced and there being insufficient room in the trenches, took up a position on some excavated earth in the rear, where a deadly rifle fire was poured into the advancing lines.

Ravines Full of Dead.
The Turkish forces could be seen endeavoring to get their men forward, but they would not face the fire and retreated in disorder after suffering heavy casualties. The ground in front of our trenches in every direction can be seen covered with Turkish dead. Patrols sent out at intervals report that the valleys and ravines are also full of them. There can be no possible doubt that the enemy's losses have been very heavy.

"After checking and counterchecking the reports from all sources, I put down their total casualties between June 28 and July 2, at 6500 killed and 15,000 wounded.

"Following is an extract from captured divisional orders:

"There is nothing that causes us more sorrow, increases the courage of the enemy and encourages him to attack more freely, causing us great losses, than the losing of these trenches. Henceforth, commanders who surrender these trenches, from whatever side the attack may come, before the last man is killed, will be punished in the same way as if they had fled. Especially will the commanders of units told off to guard a certain front be punished if, instead of thinking about their work, supporting their units and giving information to the higher command, they only take action after a regrettable incident has taken place.

"I hope this will not occur again. I have given notice that if it does I shall carry out the punishment. I do not desire to see a blot made on the courage of our men by those who escape from the trenches to avoid the rifle and machine gun fire of the enemy. Henceforth I shall hold responsible all officers who do not show that their revolvers all privates who try to escape from the trenches on any pretext.

"Commander of the Eleventh Division.

"COL. RIFAAT."

MULE DEALER KILLED IN AUTO

Arnold D. Cottingham of Kansas City started as a Newbury, KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 6.—Arnold D. Cottingham, 54 years old, who had the reputation of being the greatest individual mule dealer in the world, was killed at 5:30 p'clock yesterday afternoon, when his large touring car skidded on the grass along the Hickman road. During the Spanish-American and Boer wars Cottingham sold the American and British Governments more mules than any other dealer in the country. He started his career as a Newbury.

American Killed on Steamer.
BRIDGETOWN, Barbadoes, July 6.—Officers of the British steamship Tennyson, from Rio Janeiro, for New York, arriving here yesterday, reported that Cesar Bravo, formerly of the United States navy, had shot and killed Harry Coney, an American, on board the Tennyson, and had then turned the weapon on himself. Bravo was taken to a hospital.

TSE-NE-GAT PLACED ON TRIAL

Plute Accused of Murder Was Taken by Gen. Scott After Posses Failed.
DENVER, Colo., July 6.—The trial of Tse-Ne-Gat (Everett Hatch), a Plute Indian, charged with the murder of Juan Chacon, a herder, was begun here yesterday in Federal Court. Efforts by a posse of United States Deputies under United States Deputy Marshal Aquila Nebeker to arrest Tse-Ne-Gat last February resulted in armed resistance by recalcitrant Plutes. Several Indians and a member of the posse of Deputies were killed in battles near Bluff, Utah.

ONLY 27 PERSONS INJURED IN 2-DAY CELEBRATION HERE

In 1906 There Were One Death and 245 Injuries; in 1909, Three Deaths, 163 Injuries.

Twenty-seven persons were injured in St. Louis in accidents directly connected with the two days' celebration of the Fourth of July, yesterday and Sunday, according to police reports. This is the smallest number recorded in any year since the "safe and sane" Fourth idea first had a practical trial in 1910.

Before that year, the casualties averaged 200 a year, with occasional fatalities. In 1906, there were one death and 245 injuries; in 1909, three deaths and 163 injuries. The latter record caused the enactment of "safe and sane" ordinances, and in 1910 there were only 28 casualties. In the subsequent years the number has not exceeded this, and last year it was estimated at 33.

Marshall Cree, 19 years old, of 4805 Maffitt avenue, an amateur chemist, lost the thumb and forefinger of his left hand in an effort to make a noise mixture more effective than those of the professionals. His face also was burned, and it is feared that the sight of the left eye was impaired.

Cree had prepared a compound of dynamite, charcoal, sugar, saltpeter and ordinary gunpowder, and was loading a small cannon with it, tamping the charge home with a heavy steel bolt. The charge was exploded. He was taken to the Jewish Hospital. He is a son of William D. Cree, president of the Cree-Ober Paper Co.

Henry Hoerr, 17, of 4661 Terry avenue, was watching Cree's charge. The steel bolt, after wounding Cree's hand, was driven through the rim and crown of Hoerr's hat, grazing his head.

Walter Westcott, 21 years old, of 4077 Kosuth avenue, paying toll for the Third National Bank, lost two fingers of his left hand as the result of a cannon explosion. The fingers were so burned that amputation was necessary.

Virginia Nordhaus, 7 years old, of 4417 Ellersback avenue, was burned about the face and body when her dress took fire from a sparkler, which she was holding in her hand as she rode a velocipede.

Some who were injured yesterday, apparently not in a dangerous manner, in various accidents, were Irene Beck, 18, 4227 Bruno avenue; Morris Hasler, 12, 4409 Hunt avenue; Charles Clinton, 1409 Pine street; Cecil Cutler, 12, 4137 Sarpy avenue; Emil Baumgartner, 18, 3317 North Eleventh street; and William Wasmhoff, 18, 3911 North Twenty-second street. Several others were hurt Sunday.

Big Bonfire in Forest Park Attracts Hundreds to Scene.
Hundreds of persons, most of them in automobiles, watched the city's biggest Independence day bonfire in Forest Park, north of the Mount Police Station, last night. Scattered about over four acres about 1000 wagon loads of rubbish and trees were set ablaze by the park keeper and his assistants.

Ten gallons of kerosene were used in giving the fire a good start. As it blazed motorists kept up a constant din with their horns.

The flames reddened the sky and caused some excited persons to turn in fire alarms, to which six engine companies responded. The park keeper and his assistants notified the firemen as fast as they arrived that their services would not be required.

19 Killed, 903 Hurt in Two-Day Celebration of the Fourth of July

NINETEEN persons dead and 903 injured was the nation's sacrifice to the two days' celebration of the Fourth of July, according to corrected figures compiled today by the Chicago Tribune.

These figures show an increase over the totals of 1914, when there were 12 persons killed and 870 injured. A large increase also was shown in the fire loss, the total for this year being $235,325, as compared with $20,545 last year.

The causes of fatalities this year were as follows: Fireworks, 9; cannon, 4; firearms, 4; gunpowder, 2.

In Chicago only one person was killed and two injured.

son of William D. Cree, president of the Cree-Ober Paper Co. Henry Hoerr, 17, of 4661 Terry avenue, was watching Cree's charge. The steel bolt, after wounding Cree's hand, was driven through the rim and crown of Hoerr's hat, grazing his head.

19 Killed, 903 Hurt in Two-Day Celebration of the Fourth of July

NINETEEN persons dead and 903 injured was the nation's sacrifice to the two days' celebration of the Fourth of July, according to corrected figures compiled today by the Chicago Tribune.

These figures show an increase over the totals of 1914, when there were 12 persons killed and 870 injured. A large increase also was shown in the fire loss, the total for this year being $235,325, as compared with $20,545 last year.

The causes of fatalities this year were as follows: Fireworks, 9; cannon, 4; firearms, 4; gunpowder, 2.

In Chicago only one person was killed and two injured.

son of William D. Cree, president of the Cree-Ober Paper Co. Henry Hoerr, 17, of 4661 Terry avenue, was watching Cree's charge. The steel bolt, after wounding Cree's hand, was driven through the rim and crown of Hoerr's hat, grazing his head.

Walter Westcott, 21 years old, of 4077 Kosuth avenue, paying toll for the Third National Bank, lost two fingers of his left hand as the result of a cannon explosion. The fingers were so burned that amputation was necessary.

Virginia Nordhaus, 7 years old, of 4417 Ellersback avenue, was burned about the face and body when her dress took fire from a sparkler, which she was holding in her hand as she rode a velocipede.

Some who were injured yesterday, apparently not in a dangerous manner, in various accidents, were Irene Beck, 18, 4227 Bruno avenue; Morris Hasler, 12, 4409 Hunt avenue; Charles Clinton, 1409 Pine street; Cecil Cutler, 12, 4137 Sarpy avenue; Emil Baumgartner, 18, 3317 North Eleventh street; and William Wasmhoff, 18, 3911 North Twenty-second street. Several others were hurt Sunday.

Big Bonfire in Forest Park Attracts Hundreds to Scene.
Hundreds of persons, most of them in automobiles, watched the city's biggest Independence day bonfire in Forest Park, north of the Mount Police Station, last night. Scattered about over four acres about 1000 wagon loads of rubbish and trees were set ablaze by the park keeper and his assistants.

Ten gallons of kerosene were used in giving the fire a good start. As it blazed motorists kept up a constant din with their horns.

The flames reddened the sky and caused some excited persons to turn in fire alarms, to which six engine companies responded. The park keeper and his assistants notified the firemen as fast as they arrived that their services would not be required.

BOYS AND GIRLS PLAN CAMPAIGNS TO AID BABIES

Various Methods Employed to Obtain Money for Milk and Ice Fund.

CONTRIBUTIONS.
Previously acknowledged $516.60
W. H. McClure 2.00
Ruth and Elsie Hartman, Elmer Zuckewiller, Edward and Elmer Hecke 3.00
Total $521.60

Rid of the diverting influence of Independence day, with its varied excitements and pleasures, the children of St. Louis can now apply themselves with singleness of thought to saving the babies with supplies of pure milk and free ice distributed through agencies sustained by the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund.

In every quarter of St. Louis boys and girls are busy in the planning of campaigns for relief of suffering infants. Effort is being applied in various ways, from direct collections to little "merchandising" enterprise and ambitious carnivals and dramatic undertakings. Boys and girls by scores to whom the work is new are joining the league army daily. Campaigns, from which results have flowed, are being continued by those whose love and sympathy have not been satisfied by a single effort. With constantly increasing numbers the purpose to save the babies thrives.

From Gravette, Ark., Mrs. S. C. Davis, a league member, sends $2, with these cheering words: "I only wish I were financially able to make it many times this modest sum."

Their Third Year.
Tomorrow afternoon five little girls, for the third consecutive year, will give an ice cream festival, on the lawn of 441 Evans avenue. The girls are Lucile Hahne, Ruth Graewsky, Blanche Jacobs, Ruth Epstein and Blanche Klem. They advise the Post-Dispatch that "we are all working faithfully to raise as much as possible for the welfare of the tenement babies."

Lillian Blumberg of 1489 Glasgow avenue and several of her little friends are organizing a play for the benefit of the fund, for which they are regular and dependable workers. The girls are all under 13 years old.

Meta Schraeder of 3624 Rutger street and Madeline Bettles and Louise Spangenberg are going to conduct a lemonade stand in that neighborhood for the benefit of the babies, and are confident that the affair will produce substantial results.

The West End Juniors, who already have announced a carnival for the evening of July 18, at the Synagogue, West 2nd avenue and Page boulevard, state to the Post-Dispatch that later they will give a dramatic performance for the same cause. At the carnival there will be sales of all kinds of sweetmeats, along with booths where fortunes will be told. Varied and handsome gifts are to be awarded, including jewelry, hand-painted china, cut glass, bric-a-brac, etc. The grounds will be brilliantly illuminated with electric lights, and a tarpaulin will be spread for dancing that is to follow. In short, nothing is to be omitted that will foster a good time for all who attend.

Members of Juniors.

The carnival recently given by a number of boys and girls residing in the neighborhood, at 5579 Wells avenue, in which Misses Adele Forrester, Eleanor Marshall and Ethel Williams were leaders, is being carried through its second week. These little friends of the poor babies were fairly successful in their first endeavor, despite the unfavorable weather, but the result did not satisfy their ambition and hence the continuation. This is their fourth year in the relief work, and each year is marked by increase in the sum raised.

CAR HITS AUTO, WOMAN HURT

An automobile occupied by nine young men, one of whom had taken it without the owner's knowledge, was struck by a westbound Creve Coeur car at Ferguson and Olive street roads last night. None of the occupants was hurt, but Mrs. Ralph E. Haisdel of 3833 Patton avenue, a passenger on the street car, was thrown against a seat and injured.

The car was driven by A. C. Schupp, 21 years old, of 2877 Castleman avenue, who told the police of University City that he had taken it from a garage in the rear of his father's store at 3875 Castleman avenue. The owner of the machine is W. L. Norwood of 4000 De Tonty street, a manager at the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

OPPORTUNITY GIVEN MINISTER SULLIVAN TO RESIGN HIS POST

American Representative in Dominican Republic Guilty of Indiscretions.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—James M. Sullivan, American Minister to the Dominican Republic, has been given the opportunity to resign as a result of the investigation conducted by the commission headed by Senator James D. Phelan of California.

The report of the commission, which was appointed by former Secretary Bryan, has been on file several weeks. Secretary Lansing a few days ago, by instructions of President Wilson, informed Sullivan the report had recommended that he be permitted to resign. The Minister was given a week to consider the matter and his resignation is expected.

While the Phelan report has not been made public it is understood to criticize Sullivan for indiscretions in the conduct of his office, though praising him for putting into effect certain reforms and having accomplished many things in the interest of the United States. It calls for attention to a letter written by Sullivan, in which he referred disparagingly to the people of San Domingo. This letter, the commission held, impaired the usefulness of the Minister.

It is understood that the commission exonerated Sullivan of all charges affecting his integrity.

NO DECREASE IN NUMBER OF SALOON LICENSES EXPECTED

Time for Receiving Applications at Excise Office Expires Tomorrow Evening.

No decrease in the number of saloon licenses is expected in Excise Commissioner Rumsey's office, where applications are now being received, the time limit expiring tomorrow evening. This morning it was announced that the number was about 2350, as compared with 2300 previously, and that the difference would probably be made up in the remaining two days. The present number means one saloon for every 246 persons in St. Louis, estimating the population at 750,000.

The Kansas City Board of Excise (and Police) Commissioners have introduced new requirements, which are expected to reduce the number of saloons in that city considerably. They have announced that every applicant must show that he is not the agent or representative of any brewery or distillery.

This action was taken in pursuance of the provisions of the State law, which provides that the representatives of breweries or distilleries cannot obtain saloon licenses. Excise Commissioner Rumsey has refused to take any step toward enforcing this law in St. Louis.

STOLEN SILVERWARE FOUND IN TWO MEN'S ROOM IDENTIFIED

Part of Loot Taken From Suite of A. L. Bauman in Warwick Apartments.

Silverware found in the room occupied by James Stewart, a burglar, and John Murray at 4 South Eighth street ("Hop Alley"), last night was identified this morning as part of the loot taken several nights ago from the suite of A. L. Bauman in the Warwick Apartments, 3446 Kingsbury boulevard.

In reporting the robbery, Mrs. Bauman told the police that one of the burglars evidently had cut himself, as she found her penknife open when she returned home after the robbery and observed blood specks on a towel. Stewart, one of the men arrested, had a cut on the index finger of his left hand.

In addition to the silverware detectives found a "limmy" and a revolver in the room occupied by the men. Stewart has been convicted of burglary in this city and Chicago. The police were unable to find any record of Murray.

SPROUSE CASE IS NOT YET OFFICIALLY BEFORE GOVERNOR

Executive Says Petitions of Women Asking for Clemency for Wife Murderer Have Not Reached Him.

Gov. Major, when on his way to the Glen Echo Club yesterday with Excise Commissioner Rumsey, stopped for a few minutes at the Clayton courthouse and chatted with Sheriff Bode. As the Governor was departing, the Sheriff inquired if the Governor had received petitions from women who are seeking commutation of the death sentence imposed on William Sprouse for wife murder.

Gov. Major told Sheriff Bode that the petitions had not reached him. The Sheriff asked how the Governor "stood" on the Sprouse matter, and the Governor replied "that he didn't stand at all," as no request for commutation of sentence had reached the Governor's office.

Sprouse, under the Governor's intercession, will be hanged at Clayton a week from Friday.

BROKER FINED FOR SALOON ROW

Gilmartin Refused to Shake Hands and Then Called Proprietor Names.

Patrick J. Gilmartin of 963 Goodfellow avenue, a grain broker, was fined $5 by Judge Hogan today on a charge of having disturbed the peace of John Cafferata, cafe proprietor at Delmar and Hamilton avenues, June 29.

Cafferata testified that Gilmartin entered the saloon and he walked up to Gilmartin and asked if he would shake hands. Cafferata said Gilmartin refused to shake hands and called him names. Gilmartin testified that he previously had had trouble with Cafferata and that he did not desire to shake hands with him. He admitted that he called Cafferata names. He paid his fine.

CHICAGO, July 6.—The Western passenger rate hearing, in which 46 Western railroads hope to prove that present rates, said to be unremunerative, should be advanced, began here today before Examiner Thurtell of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

C. C. Wright, making the opening statement for the railroads, said in part: "The carriers expect to show that the net operation income of the roads involved during the last seven years, has been materially less than it was for the seven years immediately prior to that period. It will be shown that this is true, notwithstanding the fact that there has been an increase in the volume of business and an increase in the property investment. This, of course, results in a higher operating ratio and a naturally a lesser rate of return than has been maintained heretofore."

Swiss to Care for German Orphans. BERLIN, July 6, by wireless to Sayville.—The German Minister, at Bern, Switzerland, on behalf of his country, has accepted the offer of a Swiss committee, comprised chiefly of women, to take care of several German war orphans during the summer.

PARISIAN SAGE

People whose hair looks dull and lifeless and who find it growing dry, brittle, splitting at ends and coming out fast at every combing need a genuine scalp invigorator and should get one without a day's delay. A little Parisian Sage rubbed briskly into the scalp with the finger tips twice daily will work wonders for hair of this kind. Just a few days use and the hair becomes glossy and healthy looking, dandruff vanishes, scalp stops itching and hair stops falling out. Parisian Sage is more than a hair tonic. It is a scalp treatment and its use means strong, beautiful hair and a healthy scalp. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., and leading druggists everywhere sell Parisian Sage. It is not expensive.—ADV.

CHICAGO LABOR LEADER SHOT AT DOOR OF HOME

Police Attribute Attack on Official of Bricklayers' Union to Carpenters' Strike.

CHICAGO, July 6.—Charles H. Johnston, secretary and treasurer of the Bricklayers' Union, was shot twice below the heart as he answered a ring of his doorbell early today. Physicians said the wounds probably would be fatal.

His assailant, whom he failed to recognize, escaped.

Police attributed the shooting to labor troubles. The brickmakers have been thrown out of employment as a result of the action of the construction material interests in refusing to deliver building supplies until the strike of 16,000 carpenters is settled.

Buggy and Auto Collide; Two Hurt.

David Burget, 20 years old, and his half-brother, Walter de Pung, 23, both of 210 South Twenty-third street, were thrown from a buggy when it collided with an automobile driven by a negro at Twenty-first street and Clark avenue, yesterday afternoon. They were cut and bruised. The negro fled.

MORGAN ATTACK SHOCKS BRYAN

Man "Must Be Beside Himself to Think Violence Is Road to Peace."

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—Commenting on the attempted assassination of J. P. Morgan by Frank Holt, William Jennings Bryan said: "The spirit of retaliation is responsible for this. It is that spirit which is the source of all of the cruelties that have accompanied the war in Europe. We cannot afford to have that spirit transplanted into this country. It is shocking that this attack should have been made on Morgan and it is very fortunate that it was not fatal. A man must be beside himself to think that violence is the road to peace."

Thomas Jefferson "Father of the Declaration of Independence"

THIS noble founder of the Democratic Party immortalized himself by writing our Declaration of Independence—the document which laid the foundations of Free Government, not only for our own beloved land, but for all the world. His countrymen twice elected him President and will always treasure his memory. Jefferson was the most ardent advocate of Universal Freedom of his time and it was his wisdom and foresight which brought about the Louisiana Purchase. Every drop of his Virginia blood loved Liberty; and because he wanted Americans to be assured of it for all time he championed with all his might and main the signing of the Constitution of the United States. None of the Fathers of the Republic were more far-seeing than he and none knew better than he that a mild brew of barley-malt and hops is truly a temperance drink. Hence, in 1816, he wrote President Madison: "A Captain Miller is about to settle in this country and establish a brewery. I wish to see this beverage become common." Jefferson lived past his 83rd year and all his life he was a moderate user of light wines and barley brews. It is unimaginable that were he alive to-day he would vote otherwise than NO to proposed tyrannous prohibition laws. For 58 years Anheuser-Busch have been brewing the kind of honest barley and hop brews which Jefferson hoped in his day to see the National beverage of Americans. Exactly such a beer is BUDWEISER, its quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor have won its way to the top. To-day 7500 people are daily required to meet the public demand. Its sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles.

Visitors to St. Louis are courteously invited to inspect our plant—covers 142 acres.

Warm Weather Lassitude

Don't let it overtake you by keeping the system and body in good condition—drive it from you if it has already taken hold—by using

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

The reliable tonic stimulant. Thousands who suffer from that "tired feeling" do not associate it with a condition of lowered vitality. This tonic will soon relieve the feeling of lassitude, stimulate the circulation, improve appetite and digestion and restore vigor to the body and elasticity to the step.

A bottle of Duffy's should be kept in the medicine chest as first aid for relieving and preventing all summer ailments. The very best for emergencies.

"Get Duffy's and Keep Well!"

At most drug stores, grocers and dealers. If they can't supply you, write us. Medical booklet free.

MT. VERNON FEARS SOME ONE TRIED TO SELL ITS CITY PARK

Accountant Discovers All the Deeds to That Property Are Missing.

PAID $16,000 NOT OWED

Forty Acres of Land Worth $150 an Acre Sold to City for $400 an Acre.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
MOUNT VERNON, Ill., July 6.—Officials of the new Democratic city administration here began an investigation today to see if anyone who had access to the records of the last decade of Republican administrations had been trying to sell the city park.

In a brief visit here yesterday Henry Clay Perkins, a St. Louis accountant, fired more bombs in the Mayor's office than were fired upon the public square at the Independence day celebration in the evening. In outlining the report he will make of his audit to the City Council, he reported that the deeds, 25 in number, to the city park have disappeared.

All records of the City Engineer's office, including the record of city bonds given to contractors for work, have disappeared. "Virtually all the records of the City Clerk's office are missing. The city appears to have paid $16,000 on waterworks and electric light bonds, which it did not owe, to unknown persons."

Menzel's Partial Shortage $2100.
The shortage in city funds of Frank Menzel, City Clerk until April 20, who is now under arrest, is $2100 without counting an alleged overpayment of salary and with all records during the last six weeks of his administration missing.

A duplication of $500 in city orders paid by the city has been found in the accounts of the last month of the administration of Menzel's predecessor.

Banks have been doing the work of the City Treasurer without being deputized so to say. The Jefferson State Bank returned today $20.19 to the city for errors discovered by the audit, and many persons having city orders are being obliged to wait for payment.

The city paid the Mount Vernon Improvement Association $400 an acre for the 40 acres of park land, while surrounding values do not exceed $150 an acre.

A search at the Recorder's office this morning showed that the deeds to the city park are apparently properly recorded, but the accountant said that he regarded the disappearance of the deeds as suspicious. Many of them are for small lots, which were included in the park purchase, and he said that these might be used to impose upon buyers not well acquainted with real estate transactions. He was emphatic in stating that the city had paid two prices for the property.

It has been the custom here to pay for contracting work by bond issues and it appears that the bonds have been turned over directly to contractors without passing through the City Treasurer's office. In this way the disappearance of the books makes it almost impossible to determine how the bond issues compare with the work done. The City Engineer, Tony Pitchford, is out of the city today. His predecessor, R. C. Wells, died just after the spring election.

The Auditor said he is puzzled in regard to the city's overpayment of bonds. In acquiring the waterworks and electric light plants the city issued bonds for $80,000. The combined plants were sold to a Chicago corporation for $1, the company to assume all indebtedness. Despite this fact, the Auditor told the Mayor and City Clerk that the city appears to have kept on paying off the bonds and interest to the amount of $16,000.

Mayor Payne said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that in addition to the discrepancies outlined, the Auditor's report will show numerous other queer doings on the part of former officials. He said that these matters could scarcely be let pass as carelessness and that at the best it was criminal carelessness. The Mayor and other officials have begun work as an informal board of investigation and he said that the Council at the next meeting undoubtedly would appoint a Committee on Investigation, with power to call witnesses.

"We secured an outside audit," the Mayor said, "so as to be assured of strict impartiality. When the formal report is presented it is certain that the city will act without regard to who may be involved in these amazing proceedings."

G. F. M. Ward, Park Commissioner, said that he had not learned of anyone today that the deeds to the park property were missing. He said he could not imagine how they could have been lost accidentally.

"There are many strange things about the city affairs," he said, "but I am quite sure the park is still in place. At least it was last night."

Policeman's Wife Hurt in Runaway.
A horse attached to a wagon, driven by Mrs. Julia Shelton of 447 Main avenue, wife of a policeman, ran away at Normandy Grove yesterday afternoon and the wagon was overturned. Mrs. Shelton and Lawrence Stosberg, a 17-year-old messenger, who accompanied her, received cuts and bruises. They were taken to the city hospital.

Railroads and Shippers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The Missouri railroads positively refuse to refund to the shippers of Missouri several millions of dollars unjustly collected from them on timber, grain, live stock and other shipments, and which the courts have held they must refund. Yet they decline to do so, as one of these shippers, went to say that until the railroads play fair with us and refund this money, we will use every influence in our power at every opportunity to prevent them from obtaining any increase in passenger and freight rates or other concessions. The past session of the State Legislature will plainly show this to them. The railroads had their men over the entire State soliciting names to petitions asking for increase, and would have, no doubt, been successful, but for the able efforts of such men as Col. Dyer of the firm of McCall-Dyer Lumber Co. of Kansas City, Mo., who spent large sums of money as well as his time, in distributing printed matter asking only fair play, calling attention as follows: "Shall Missouri be made the goat as the railroads paid claims of the same nature in other states, and one of the roads owning something like 200 miles in the State was honest enough to make the refund and paid back the overcharges. One may rest assured that the shippers favor this line at every opportunity. THE SHIPPER.

U. S. Ignorance.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
What is fame and what is history? An Indiana man has written to ask about "Confederate Bills" bearing the name of the late General. That Alexander H. Stephens should have been confounded with Thaddeus in such a way is the most laughable fact I have read in a year. MISSOURI.

Clean Up the Public Institutions.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
"Swat the fly and exterminate the mosquito" are good and effective slogan cries, but may ask to what authorities—municipal or through the women's clubs—influences for the prevention of public evils—should a request be made for investigation and control of the evil of the common bedbug in our public institutions?
Health Commissioner Starkloff's commendable action for the proper care of the aged sick in one of our institutions suggests a similar much needed attention to the relief of helpless old age and children from swarming vermin, especially bed bugs, in some of our otherwise well kept and hygienic institutions. ONE WHO KNOWS.

The St. Vincent de Paul Society.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Your editorial in Saturday evening's paper commenting on the work of the St. Vincent de Paul Society was very much appreciated by all members of the society who read it.
The history of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, the greatest charitable organization in the world, is replete with interest. Founded over 80 years ago by Frederick Ozanam in the City of Paris, France, it is now a world organization with unit conferences in every Christian city in the world, each one in personal touch with the charitable situation and doing an immense amount of charitable, philanthropic and social service work.
Its aim is to eliminate dependence upon others by the nature of the people who are down and out and to make them self-supporting. In short, their ultimate aim is to eliminate abject poverty. Working quietly and unobtrusively, it keeps the deserving family in food and clothing, furnishes medicine and medical attendance for the sick, secures positions for the husband, father, brother or sister who are out of employment, and buries the dead. In fact, its work is too large to mention in less than volumes.
The society does all this work without discrimination as to creed, race or religion, as its laws would not permit it to do otherwise. The most wonderful feature of its work is the fact that it is done without salaries of any kind. A dollar donated to the St. Vincent de Paul Society goes 100 per cent charity on the dollar, and none but the deserving get any assistance.
Its members do the society's work in the name of God and humanity, and let us hope that this will go on down through the ages until the end of time. G. A. RYAN.

Indecent Films.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
The letter written by Mr. John Towers concerning the need of a strict censorship of moving pictures in this city expressed my own feelings about the matter. I have myself seen a picture show, not many days ago, which was undeniably indecent. Why should we have shown in a film what we would not tolerate in vaudeville?
I am glad Mr. Towers wrote that letter; and I heartily follow in his steps.

AND HARD COAL AT $8.50 A TON.

No effort was made to prove that the price of coal was excessive," says the opinion of a Federal Court at Philadelphia, denying a petition for the dissolution of the Reading holding company.

So, in this particular attack on that intricate community of transportation and mining interests known as the Hard Coal Trust, no attempt was made to prove the thing that seems easiest to prove. If the retail price charged for hard coal in a great area of the country is not excessive, what could be considered excessive? If it includes only legitimate profit where would we look for monopoly profit?

About all the features of the combination which the Government's counsel contended were illegal, the opinion declares are legal. And about the only things the opinion says are illegal are features whose legality the Government's counsel did not deny.

The monopolizing of great areas of unmined coal is only a prudent acquisition of surplus deposits with a view to future needs, according to the opinion. No oppression through trust practices was found to exist by the court. The commodities clause has not been violated.

The Reading's connection with the Lehigh Navigation Co. is not illegal. However, the Lehigh Navigation Co. may itself be an illegal combine, but as that point was not raised by the Government's counsel it must be determined in another suit, if determined at all.

The New Jersey Central Railroad, which controls the Wilkes-Barre Coal Co., is controlled by the Reading holding company, which also controls the Reading Coal and Iron Co. This makes a bad combination, the court admits, but one that can be brought within the law by separating the New Jersey Central and the Wilkes-Barre Co. As this point, however, had never been argued, it must be a subject of further proceedings.

After years of effort against the Hard Coal Trust the net progress to date is represented in a Supreme Court decision last week reversing a lower court that had acquitted another coal road of violating the commodities clause. This Reading decision will be also appealed. Possibly it may also be reversed. But the consumer can figure on paying the same old robber prices for anthracite next winter.

Between lower courts that have difficulty in recognizing a trust and Government counsel that leave out all the strong points in making up their case, the Coal Trust is enabled to enjoy the same singular immunity the Beef Trust enjoys.

FOURTH OF JULY CHILBLAINS.

Boys who got up at 5 a. m. to begin the Independence day celebration shivered in a temperature of 55 degrees and acquired chilblains. Will things be so completely turned around in this topsy-turvy year that they will pant in 85 or 90 degree heat when they examine their Christmas stockings?

PRIOR LIEN ON THEIR SERVICES.

A considerable number of the army and navy officers who sought to surrender their commissions had planned to accept employment with munition makers.

These men had been taken in youth by the Government and educated, had been afforded by the Government time and facilities for attaining professional excellence, had, perhaps, reached the status of experts through experimentation made possible by the Government. The only equipment that would make them valuable to the munition manufacturers was the equipment supplied them at Government cost and now because they could, for a brief period, gain large remuneration, they sought to deprive the Government of their services to advance private profit. The President justly refused to accept their resignations.

With equal justice he also refused acceptance to those other officers who, though with different motives, unpatriotically presented their resignations at a time when both army and navy are under severe criticism because of an alleged weakness in personnel as well as in the means of making war.

"THE GREAT WAR SYNDICATE."

"The Great War Syndicate" was a story by Frank R. Stockton, published some years ago satirizing the craze for the corporate form of organization. It assumed that corporations had become so highly specialized that the Government, on the breaking out of war, had, under a contract, surrendered to a syndicate, formed for the purpose, the highest of all the obligations of sovereignty—the duty of licking the common enemy.

This incorporated private War Department, with the navy as an adjunct, demonstrated surprising value as a new variety of public utility. It showed great wisdom, foresight, appreciation of new problems in warfare, rapidity of action, trained technique and genuine fighting ability. It had its forces at the proper place at the proper time, was not taken unawares, suffered no handicap from enlistment troubles or lack of shells, was involved in no scandalous over-purchases. In short, carried out its contract with the Government with efficiency and scrupulous fidelity and gave the public splendid service at a low cost previously unheard of in war.

Probably in the long run, public ownership of the means and conduct of war is to be preferred. But there are times when Governments falter, perhaps because of the disuse of prerogatives only occasionally exercised. It is good for Governments to have competition once in a while in even the most exclusive of their functions. Object lessons in successful accomplishment may be set for them by private hands at rare intervals.

Both England and the United States are the home of unnumbered corporations that fulfill multitudinous purposes with a fine adaptation of means to ends. A British syndicate which should, for a stipulated price per week, take off the hands of the ministry all responsibility for the current mismanaged war might earn the gratitude of present and future British taxpayers. And, of course, the event of trouble in Mexico, or elsewhere, America would instantly demand that a similar franchise should be given to an American syndicate, to be headed naturally by Gussie Gardner and having his confederates in and out of Congress as its board of directors. The capacity of the country's Gussie Gardner to prepare for and conduct war much better than the Government cannot be questioned.

THE SAFEST AND SANEST.

The record of Fourth-of-July celebrations extending over two days show a greatly reduced number of high explosives sold, and correspondingly less casualties. The safest and sanest Fourth up to date the conclusion of the record.

While the reduction of fireworks product and the high prices due to the war helped to improve the record, much credit is given to the safe-and-sanest campaign. Regardless of causes permanent good is gained by the reduction. The methods of celebrating the Fourth are largely matters of habit. Anything that tends to weaken the explosive habit makes for safer and safer celebrations. The campaign should go on until the use of dangerous explosives as an expression of patriotism and a means of amusement will be looked upon as intolerable folly.

CHILDREN'S GUARDIANS' BILL.

One of the most important measures passed by the Board of Aldermen was what is known as Board Bill No. 76, amending City Ordinance No. 26,565, creating the Board of Children's Guardians.

The new bill reorganizes the board under the State Act of April 3, 1911, and under the authority of Section 3, Article 14 of the new City Charter. It follows pretty closely the wording of the existing ordinance, but enlarges the scope and power of the board and provides for the new conditions when the Industrial School changes its location to the Bellefontaine Farms site.

Perhaps what was intended to be the most vital change is in the eighth clause of section six, providing that the board shall have authority "to transfer to said Board of Education of the city of St. Louis all children said board may be qualified to receive when it shall have established a parental school, as authorized by the laws of Missouri."

It has been said that the new bill takes the Industrial School, or the Bellefontaine Farms, as it will be called, out of the class of penal institutions. But an examination of Sections 1709-1714 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri, providing for the creation of "parental schools," shows that such schools are to be "places of detention," for "delinquent and dependent children." It is especially provided in Section 1710 that the children who are to be "detained," that is to say, imprisoned, in such "parental" schools are "all of the delinquent or dependent children who shall be ordered by the juvenile Court of said county to be detained therein for so long a time as said Court shall order."

This does not look like removing the children from the penalized class. And, the Industrial or Bellefontaine Farms school itself, being as it must be, a place of detention, it is doubtful if the city of St. Louis will avail itself of the authority of the State Parental Schools law to create another place of detention for children, on the lines laid down by that law. It would be a duplication of institutions.

The new law provides that the Board of Children's Guardians shall arrange with the Board of Education for the instruction of the children at the institution. And this is all that the Board of Education will have to do with the Industrial School. In all other respects it will be a self-governing institution. There is no practical provision to bring children under its control into the control of the Board of Education as free children.

The provisions of the bill for the care of dependent children by their own mothers or by placing them with suitable families or in other institutions are carefully designed to limit benefits to St. Louis children.

In spite of the apparent defects noted, the bill would give the board power to do a great deal more for the unfortunate children than it could do under the existing ordinance.

THE "REMONTADOS" OF ST. LOUIS.

"Remontados" is a word formed after the analogy of "reconcentrados" and used with a very definite meaning in the Philippines. It applies to persons who flee to the woods and jungles and refuse to pay their taxes. Portrayed from published descriptions, they seem to belong to the same general class as St. Louisians who resort to various jungle ways to avoid paying personal taxes. But the Filipinos seem to have no word to describe sworn officials and officers of justice who involve themselves in jungles of inconsistencies and contradictions by refusing to take the prescribed measures against persons who refuse to pay their taxes.

A FEDERATION OF ART MUSEUMS.

The projectors of a body to be known as the Middle West Art Association propose something different from a league of art lovers and unofficial art societies. What is planned is a federation of the boards in control of art museums having a more or less official relation with the cities in which they are located. The institutions to which it is planned to give representation in the new federated organization are those of St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Toledo, Indianapolis and Minneapolis.

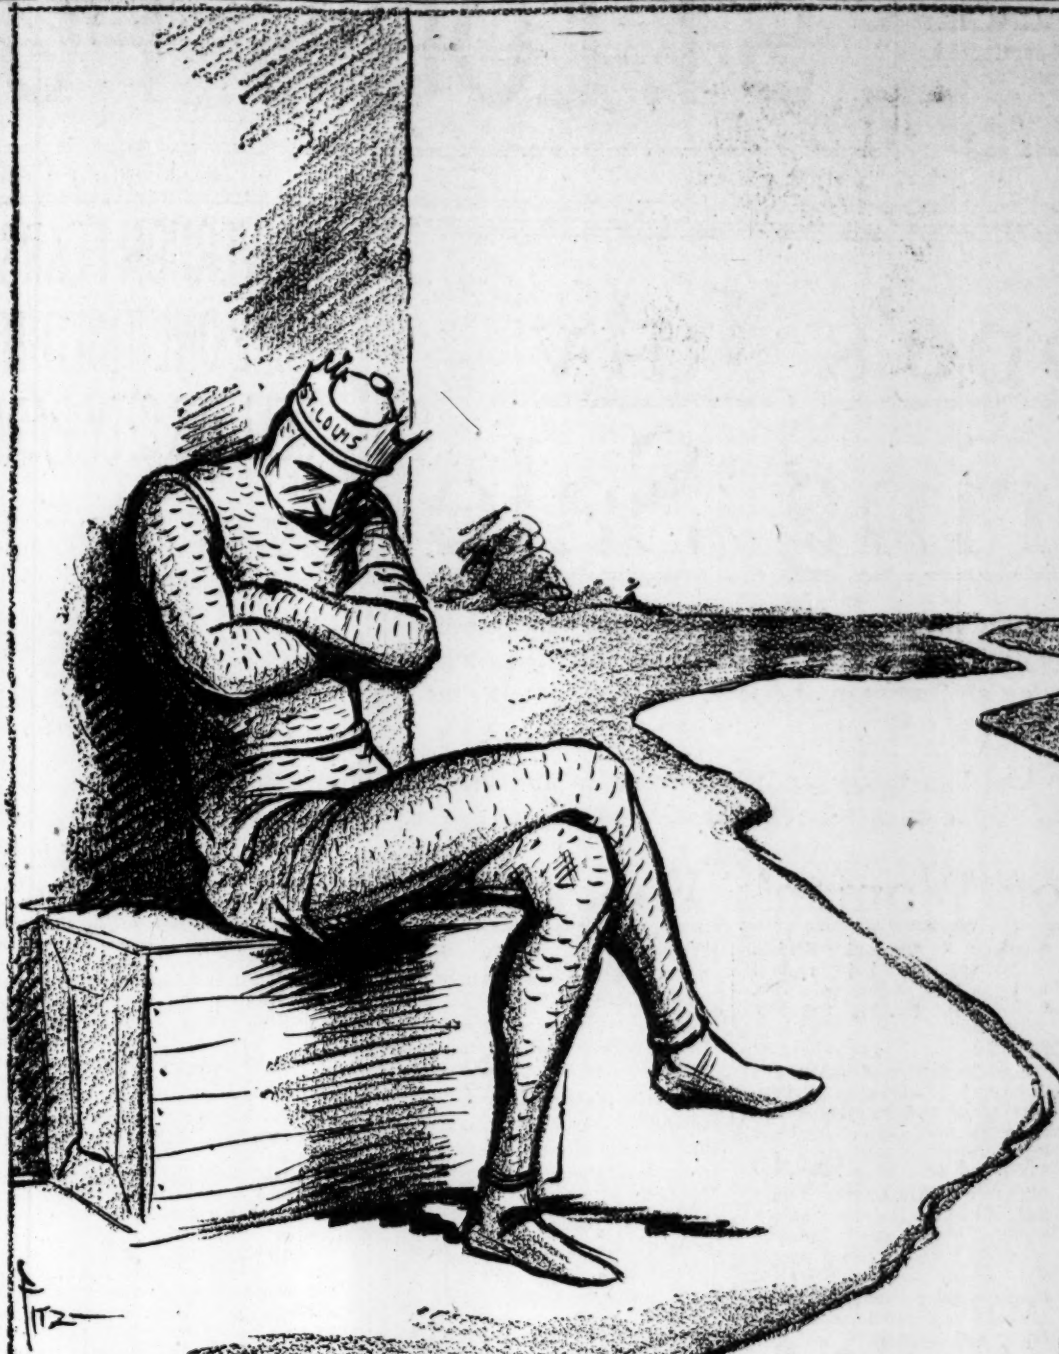

Co-operation on the part of all the several cities in arranging exhibitions of merit for the instruction of the public will, of course, be helpful. The experience of one city in finding solutions to many problems which are common to the art interests of all American commercial cities have a value which can be made available through the new organization to all the affiliated institutions. Whether the best results are assured by placing a City Art Museum supported by public taxation in control of a self-perpetuating board, unresponsive to public sentiment, is a point on which the consensus of opinion in these various cities might afford light to St. Louis.

V. HUERTA.

HUERTA peered between the bars, And watched the scintillating stars.

He wondered greatly as to what Strange law he owed his captive lot.

It struck him that if one should look, One scarce would find it in the book.

The jail, however, still remained What any catalogue contained.

The whole affair was improvised. As all good jails were advertised.

He, too, had often seen the locks In catalogues of hardware stocks.

The floor on which he came to dwell He knew in catalogue, as well.

He fumbled dumbly at the chain; A patent—advertised again!

SCIENTIFIC BASEBALL.

FELDER JONES says scientific baseball is impossible with the kind of umpiring they have in the Federal League, and after winning both games of a double-header from Kansas City against these insuperable odds he has startled the community by resigning.

We are not sure that we know what scientific baseball is, but if what Felder Jones has done with the St. Louis Federals is a fair sample of its results, it should be given the benefit of umpiring compatible with its needs. That the umpiring in the League is unscientific we can well believe. Nobody here, at least, has ever regarded umpires as scientists, and anything the outraged manager is disposed to say of them on that score is wholly credible. If, as he says, the local team is playing scientific baseball, we cannot understand how it could be fairly judged by unscientific umpiring, and we sincerely hope it is not to be any longer. That sort of umpiring may do for the Browns and Cardinals, but not for a team which by brain work and the exercise of intellectual acumen leads its league.

HOW CAESAR DID IT.

CAESAR, from whose name we have the month of July, was the first European militarist. His motto, "Faci alium ne alius te faciat," or "Do others before they do you," contemplated even more than what is termed a preparedness for war. He actually went out and whipped in advance everyone who might have done his country harm. In the case of the Britons, whom he conquered with ridiculous ease, his policy was almost brutal. They had never heard of him, and had no idea what his motive was until it was too late to resist.

His first chance to show what he could do came in Gaul, or what is now France. Unlike Emperor William, he did not attempt a drive to Paris, but swung around in a circle in what might be termed a long turning movement, with the result that he divided the country into three parts. This remains the record today. He was hailed as the greatest of the Roman generals, and in a short while became dictator. He fought through several foreign and civil wars, and never lost one. In a civil war like that in Mexico his policy would have been to run his opponents down one at a time and force them to fight. Caesar always said the other side looked thicker in repose than it did in action. He would have taken any of the armies in Mexico and beaten the field in thirty days. His manner of fighting a foreign war was even more scientific. Instead of appointing twenty or thirty more generals and scattering his army all over the map as armies Nos. 1, 2, 3, etc., he acted as his own general, massed his men into one great fighting machine, and polished the earth with it.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

BEAUTY CULTURE.

F. A. F.-Gowland's lotion for freckles.
NEW READER.—Curling fluid: 1 dram sunflower oil, 1 dram castor oil, 2 ounces rosewater. Mix and dissolve. Moistens the hair with this solution. Put up in curling kids or papers.

READER.—It is said that moles should never be tampered with, but should be removed only by skillful physician or surgeon. This formula has been published: Thoroughly mix 20 grains of tartar emetic, finely powdered, 1/2 frame of soap, plaster with half dram Venice turpentine. Spread mixture upon adhesive plaster, apply firmly to surface of mole, and remove when suppuration sets in. (Some merely apply raw potato.)

HEALTH HINTS.

REGRET.—Unless by the advice of an honest oculist, do not discard your glasses.

PSORIASIS.—Psoriasis is an itching disease beginning with small reddish spots, the size of a pin's head, which become covered with scaly or about scaly scales. Removal of the eruption is not difficult. Relapses are common. Permanent cure can never be assured. Patient should never overeat. Diet for diet worker, all the food in ounces: Breakfast—Bread, 2-3; butter, 1/2; tea, 1/2; cream, 1/2. Lunch—Bread, 2-3; butter, 1/2; grapes, 5; lima beans, 1-2; turnips, 2; cornstarch, 1/2; potato cake, 1/2. Supper—Bread, 2-3; butter, 1/2; prunes, 3; cauliflower, 2; corn, 1-2; celery, 1; potatoes, 1. Another diet for variation (food in ounces): Breakfast—Bread, 2-3; butter, 1/2; cornstarch, 1/2; cabbage, 2; lima beans, 2; potato cake, 1-2. Supper—Bread, 1-2; butter, 1/2; lettuce, 5-6; beets, 1-2; corn meal, 1; prunes, 2; sweet potatoes, 1-2; cream, 2-3.

SOREHEAD.—A specialist says: When the ear discharges, roll absorbent cotton on a toothpick and gently remove all the moisture in the bowl of the ear. Then dilute peroxide with hydrogen until an equal amount of warm water and with a teaspoon or medicine dropper drop into the ear, pulling the ear out to allow the liquid to penetrate. After this has bubbled up and become quite warm, turn over the head on a towel, and repeat several times. I should not advise the use of cotton in the ear, as it is likely to drive the poisonous discharge back into the ear, and thus affect the drum, sometimes causing "mastoiditis." If the ear aches after the treatment, put a few drops of warm sweet oil into it. (To caloused feet apply equal parts of ammonia, sweet oil and turpentine. If you don't want to have shoes made to order, have hollow places made in the soles to fit the caloused spots. Try this: Have a shoemaker fit a thick leather sole to the inside of the shoes and cut out the size of the caloused spots where they come on the insoles. It will fit the foot up so that the soles of the shoes will not press on the caloused places.)

LAW POINTS.

FISHERMAN.—Rivers are owned by states; U. S. Government controls navigation.

CONSTANT.—For all city license information phone License Collector, city hall phone.

DESPONDENT.—Breach of promise suit may be brought in case of verbal promise of marriage.

THANKFUL.—See Prosecuting Attorney, Municipal Court Building, about your wicked husband.

S. H.—No man is required by law to patent his own invention. Anybody may make and sell it if there is no patent.

DIVORCED.—If there is a common-law marriage uniting two other people divorced, wife may claim common-law rights. The common-law marriage must be proved.

YOUNG DUCK.—No law against trapping a chicken thief. Should the trap kill him, the owner would be guilty of manslaughter, or his relatives might bring suit for damages.

MISCELLANEOUS.

JANE.—Table d'hôte, tabli dote.

IRENE.—R. S. V. P., please answer.

STUDENT.—Try Public Library for self-educating books. Ask attendants.

PLEASE ANSWER.—You can get the P-D magazine you wish, at this office. Ask for Mr. Quelch.

SENORA.—For silk-worm information, free, write Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

J. U. S. T.—For address of composer Ernest R. Ball, writing his publishers, Whitmark & Sons, New York.

JOACHIM.—Capitol of Illinois built in 1868-1888, cost about $4,500,000. Dome 261 feet high. It is the fifth capitol of Illinois and the second erected in Springfield.

AMERICANS.—The German Emperor receives $2,500,000 annually; also has vast amount of private property, castles, forests and estates, cost of which is $100,000,000. He has a private army of 100,000 men and a private fleet of 100 ships.

B. K. L.—West Point cadet, age 16-22, height, 5 feet 4 1/2 or 5 feet 5 inches at 15; pay, $700.00 a year; must have physical requirements: education, certificate of high school or state normal education. Write your Congressman.

E. V. D.—Elephants have been known to live 400 years. When Alexander the Great had conquered Phoenicia, King of Egypt, he sent an elephant, which had fought valiantly for the King, and named him Alexander, dedicated him to the sun, and let him go with this inscription: "Alexander, the son of Jupiter, hath dedicated Ajax to the sun." This elephant was found with this inscription 350 years afterward.

O. P. U.—Secret service age, at least 22. Forward, addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury and marked "Personal," form 36, properly executed. This may be had at all postoffices.

Third and Olive. With form you will have to send such evidence of experience, training, qualifications and personal characteristics as you may be able to obtain (without divulging as to political or religious affiliations). Applicants should give names and addresses of the persons to whom they refer, as to character and qualifications.

L. J. K.—Diluted carbolic acid has been recommended for poison oak poisoning and insect bites. Apply every half hour, then apply sweet oil. For chiggers, hypodermic of soda. This is dissolved in water until a saturated solution is obtainable, and the solution is applied to the spot where the chigger entered the skin. Usually one application is sufficient, but sometimes two or more are necessary. This solution is not harmful, nor disagreeable, except that there is a smarting when the skin is sore from scratching. If the solution is applied to the skin and allowed to dry without wiping it off, it will prevent chiggers entering the skin for a day or more.

HOPEFUL.—Mrs. Mildred Ladons, a New York woman, dreamed of a perfect frock—one that would be "right" at all times, fit all occasions under all circumstances. She offered a prize of $150 for such a gown, no doubt with only a forlorn hope that anything so elusive would ever materialize. But, incredibly, it happened, and young Miss Rosefield invented a marvelous "creation," which has been named the Polymiel. Not much information regarding the structural details of the Polymiel have been given out. But it has been learned that the new gown is "differently dignified, that it can be worn by any woman of any age, that it can be made from any material, and that it looks well on all occasions." As soon as it is universally adopted, a woman's wardrobe can be put on a mathematical basis. For the average woman, four or five Polymiels should be an ample supply. As they may be made of any material, $25 should be an ample sum to cover the cost of making one. If these calculations are nearly correct, $150 a year will in the future buy a yearly supply of gowns for the average woman.—Rochester Democrat.

Four Years More

"And I can do them standing on my head," says convict No. 774, who generously permits a young "lifer" to make his escape.

By John P. Roe.

No. 774 had caught meaning glances from the convicts as they filed into the foundry. He knew their meaning; for weeks a revolt had been brewing, and, strangely enough, this time the guards had no inkling of it. The secret had been well kept.

No. 774 was in for 20 years, and he had served most of them. At any time now he might be paroled. He had four more years to serve. But the spirit for freedom was strong in him. He had long since ceased to reason, to be much more than a dumb brute. He knew the odds were fearfully against him. But—outside the sun was shining, and the birds were building. A mad hunger for freedom assailed him.

Only one man in the foundry was ignorant of what was transpiring. That was little 127, a boy of 20, serving a life sentence for the murder of the man who had insulted his sweetheart. He had been there only six months. No. 774 could read him like a book. He knew the sudden outbreaks of frenzy, the hopelessness, the longing to see the girl, the certainty that she would forget him as life increased and memories grew fainter. Poor little 127!

The hardened men in the foundry could not trust the boy. The plot had been matured long ago. There was a tense expectancy as they turned to their work at the glowing forges.

The signal was to be the opening of the outer gates to admit the passage of the trustees, with their cars of slag. No. 774 listened intently.

The Dash for Liberty.

A SIMULTANEOUS yell. The men ran toward the doors, brandishing their red-hot bars of steel. The warders shrunk away in terror. They were hopelessly overpowered. No. 774 was being carried along by the press.

At his side, caught also in the crowd of men, he saw the boy.

He moved like a man in a dream. He heard whistles blowing, he heard a revolver spit spitefully and saw a man near him pitch up his arms and tumble forward. Then he was in the prison yard.

A score of crowbars were hammering upon the gates that shut the men off from the outer court, behind which lay freedom. Still dreaming, 774 saw a guard clamber upon the surrounding wall and point a rifle. Bang! Bang! six shots rang out, and every time a yell or a fall indicated that a bullet had gone home. But the furious, cursing crowd had battered down the gates.

They were in the outer court. This gatekeeper, an old man with a white pointed beard, was trying to close the gates. No. 774 saw a crowbar descend crashing upon his skull. The gatekeeper fell forward. The men were in the open and racing down the road.

No. 774 came to a realization of what had happened, because, as the crowd separated, he was no longer thrust forward among them. He stopped, gasping. As his side was the boy. His long paralyzed brain began to work.

"Down here!" he gasped, indicating a dry ditch beside the road.

He looked back quickly. They were in a little depression which hid them from the prison, or anyone on guard there. There was nobody in sight. No. 774 dropped flat among the tangle of briars, dragging the boy with him.

"We're hidden here," he said.

"The hell never look for us up near. And they'll get those other fellows as sure as a gun."

"Let me go!" sobbed the boy. "I don't care if they catch me afterwards. I've got to see!"

"No, son," answered 774. "You lay cool. It's our only chance of getting away."

The Freight Train.

MOMENT later the hue and cry swept along the road. The warders were running; the mounted squads were riding hard after the prisoners. Their attempts to escape were pitiable. From where they cowered the two could see the tiny figures strung out across the flats. The horsemen, separating, rode down each side. The sounds of shouting came faintly to the men's ears. Then the vast emptiness of afternoon hung over all.

Slowly out of the distance came a freight train. It rolled at a slow pace along the meadow banks. It would cross the road that forked with that leading to the prison, and that was only a couple of hundred paces away. They could make it unobserved by running along the gulley. And there was ample time.

No. 774 looked at the boy. He looked like a striped caterpillar in his hideous convict garb. He himself, as a first-class prisoner, wore the working garb of any laborer.

"Strip, kid!" he said.

And as the boy stared dumbly, he began to take off his shirt. He pointed toward the train.

"Hurry, kid!" he said.

The boy began suddenly to tear off the stripes. In a few minutes the transfer had been effected.

"You'll make the town by nightfall," said 774. "They won't catch you if you jump off before you reach the yards."

"But you?" bawled the boy.

"Four years more," answered 774, easily. "I could do that bit on my head. Hurry, kid!"

A clasp of the hand, two faces distorted with grief and shame, and the boy was running along the bottom of the gulley.

No. 774 watched him as he ran. He saw the train approach, slowing as it went up the incline, saw the boy scramble under a car. He held his breath involuntarily. But nobody had witnessed that sudden flash out of the gulley into the daylight. The train went on.

He Lies for the Boy.

No. 774 sat still in the gulley. He watched the mountains men ride back, shepherding their captives. As they came toward him 774 stepped into the road. A mounted man dashed at him.

"Ah, put up your whip," said 774. "I ran because I was scared. I've been waiting for you."

He took his place in the dejected crowd. A few minutes later they passed through the outer gates, where an old man with his head in a bandage cursed them volubly.

No. 774 felt his heart leap in his breast.

Germ Carriers.

THE stable fly and the common house fly are so nearly alike only an expert could tell them apart. The stable fly is slightly larger and its bites, while the common fly does not bite, the stable fly is used to do so.

The stable fly goes, too, for both are born and lay their eggs chiefly in manure. The eggs hatch in about two weeks' time.

Weekly removals of all such refuse would go far to reduce the numbers hatched, and health departments are beginning to insist on sanitary inspection of stables, barns and such places.

The reason why only quite young children are infected by the germ of infantile paralysis has been a mystery. One good reason has been suggested.

That when very young children go about with bare legs and short stockings, and with low-necked and short-sleeved frocks, leaving nearly half of the entire body surface exposed to attacking insects, which, doctors agree, is a distinct risk.

Under intelligent and constant care, a large percentage of cases in which the paralysis is not extremely severe in the beginning may be helped to recovery sufficiently to regain from one-half to two-thirds of the limbs' normal strength.

Sometimes the paralysis affects one leg and one arm, and again both legs. The limbs affected shrink in size and become shorter than their mates, but with the world's advance in surgery much can be done by nerve and muscle grafting, and soon, if not already, an antitoxin will be found, thanks to our tireless laboratory workers.

It was not murder, then! And his only offense was against the prison rules. They could take away his four years of "copper," but they could give him no more. You cannot imprison a man for breaking the prison rules by changing clothes, unless you can prove—but what could be proved?

"The boy knocked me down and took 'em off me," muttered No. 774.

He was back in his cell. Outside the birds were pouring out their evening song. He listened and looked at the calendar upon the wall.

"Four years!" he muttered, and then he thought of the boy.

"I'll do it on my head," he said, and winked, because his eyes were full of tears.

Peter Crow's Black Coat

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

M. R. PETER CROW lived at the top of a tall poplar tree and every morning he would get up before dawn and start singing. Now, as everybody knows, crows can't sing pretty songs like most other birds can, but only a "caw-caw" song, which is very harsh and dismal.

But Mr. Peter Crow thought he had a beautiful voice and always sang every morning. Now he happened to be quite an old crow and had been singing ever since he was a very wee little crowlet. So all the other birds which lived near the poplar had become accustomed to hear Mr. Peter Crow sing every morning.

Of course, none of them liked it, but he was bigger than any of them, and so they were afraid to tell him what an ugly voice he had.

Now, it happened that very close to Mr. Peter Crow lived an old gray owl. Of course, the owl was out at night and slept in the daytime. But one night old Mr. Owl found such a nice little rat that he stayed too long, and when he started home it was almost day. So just as he started to go to sleep Mr. Peter Crow woke up and began to sing.

"Hill there," called Mr. Owl. "I can't get to sleep with you making that noise!"

"Then stay awake," called back Mr.

Sanman story of how crows used to be white and of what happened that made their feathers black.

Peter Crow, who knew he was bigger than the birds and who thought it was one of them talking.

"Indeed!" said Mr. Owl, getting very mad.

W. HEN Mr. Peter Crow heard this he got mad, too, and called back:

"Who are you to stop my morning song?"

"I'm Mr. William Owl, that's who I am!" roared the owl, who was terribly mad now.

Mr. Peter Crow did not answer this, as he knew the owl was lots bigger than he was. But the owl was too mad to let the matter drop, so he flew to the poplar tree and right up to Mr. Peter Crow, who was beginning to tremble.

There sat Mr. Peter Crow, who was very white, as all crows were in those days, and very much scared.

"I'll teach you to keep me awake," roared old Mr. Owl, and as he spoke he grabbed Mr. Peter Crow in his claws and flew away with him.

"Oh! I won't slug any more; honest I won't," said Mr. Peter Crow, who was very much afraid of him. But Mr. Owl would not answer, and just kept on flying and flying. Finally he came to a big forest, which was very dark and gloomy. He flew right into this and up to a great old oak tree with a hollow trunk. Into this hole Mr. Owl thrust Peter Crow, and before he could get out the owl had stopped the hole up with some moss. And so there poor Peter Crow was a prisoner in a tree trunk, which was so dark that he couldn't see at all. Peter Crow was very unhappy, but he kept on singing in the hopes of making some one hear who would let him out.

After what seemed a very long time to Peter Crow, a woodpecker came along and heard him singing and began to peck away the moss. After much work, the moss was pulled away so Peter could crawl out, but he was very weak and couldn't see at all when he was suddenly in the light. When he was strong enough to fly and the light did not hurt his eyes, he thanked the woodpecker and flew to his poplar tree.

At the next morning he got up very early and started to sing. But it was even a more dismal song than usual, and as Mr. Owl had gone home early the night before he was fast asleep and did not hear Peter Crow.

Peter Crow was just beginning to feel pretty well when he heard a little lark laugh. Peter Crow couldn't understand it. Then he happened to look down and saw himself. He was jet black. The hollow in the tree had been so dark he had turned black from being in it. Poor Peter Crow was so upset that he stopped singing and hung his head.

From that time on, Peter Crow's song was more and more dismal, and instead of singing as he used to, he nearly always went around and just kept on saying "caw, caw," all the time. And that is what the crows do nearly all the time to this very day.

The Jarr Family

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Roy L. McCordell.

The Jarrs Find That an Airshaft Is Better Than Any Dictagraph.

M R. JARR was impatiently ransacking the bureau drawers. "Clara, where are my collars?" he called.

It never occurred to him to call the servant girl, Gertrude. When he wanted anything he always called to his wife to get it for him. For (as she often used to say, and it was true enough), she was "just a slave to that man."

But the slave wasn't answering the summons this time. "I didn't hear her go out," thought Mr. Jarr. "And if she was in the kitchen, where Gertrude is burning the grub and breaking the dishes, she'd hear me."

But such is the force of habit that he stepped from the room into that crack in the wall flat builders term as "a private hall."

"Clara, where the dickens are my collars?" he bawled.

He was aware of a murmur of voices up the airshaft and he saw the figure of Mrs. Jarr leaning half way out of the window. He went up and pulled at her morning robe.

"Why don't you answer a fellow?" Mrs. Jarr shook him off.

"Listen," she whispered tensely. "It's the Wilkenses!"

Mrs. Jarr was wrong. It wasn't the Wilkenses; it was only Mrs. Wilkens. "My heart's broke!" wailed the unhappy woman. "Married to you 10 years and look where I am and what I am! I'm getting gray and ugly and old, and we live in this cheap flat, and I haven't a decent rag to my back, and my feet are almost on the ground, and I'm insulted by butchers and bakers for their bills, and the landlord sends me notice that the rent must be paid or we'll be put out! And what do you do? What do you do?"

"Now, my dear little girl!"—the voice of the contrite Wilkens was heard to say.

"Don't you 'dear girl' me!" cried Mrs. Wilkens. "What do you do? What are you always doing? You poor, pitiful drunkard!"

"I'll never take another drop, Mazie," the voice of Mr. Wilkens was heard to say. "I know you're too good for me. I'm not worthy of you, I know, sweetheart."

"Don't talk to me!" cried Mrs. Wilkens, shrilly. "You are always going swear off, but you never do! You never come home with your wages. In all the years we have been married I have had to ask my people for help when, if you kept sober, if you didn't go on these sprees for a week at a time and spend all your money and come home to me a nervous wreck, penniless and without your watch or scarf-pin, we'd have plenty! My heart is broken, that's what it is!"

"I'm a wreck and you're an angel, Charlie, I know that!" pleaded the abject Mr. Wilkens. "Give me another chance!"

"I will not! This ends everything between us! I am going back to my 'conso!' I would have gone long ago but for my silly pride!" came the voice of Mrs. Wilkens up the airshaft.

"I deserve it, I know!" whined Mr. Wilkens. "But don't leave me; I'll kill myself if you do."

"If drinking would kill you, or gambling, you'd be dead long ago!" retorted the still un mollified Mrs. Wilkens. "It's bad enough. You never bring home a cent of your salary, and you humiliate me by compelling me to accept money from my father to support us. But when you take out my jewelry and pawn it, that's the last straw."

"You're too good for me!" moaned Mr. Wilkens. "I only drink because you are mad at me for drinking before. I'm so worried for fear you will leave me that I drink to drown the horrible thought. I'd die without you! You're the only woman I ever loved. What would I do without you?"

"Did I ever say a cross word to you in my life, sweetheart?" he whined. "Was I ever unkind to you? Look at other men how they speak to their wives. I have my faults, I know. But there is nothing and nobody in this world I care for but you!"

"I'm sorry I spoke crossly, dear," said the voice of Mrs. Wilkens, in comforting tones. "Don't take it so to heart! I know it's only had company that leads you into temptation. And never mind the old jewelry. And papa's check is due today, and I'll take you out and get you a new hat and a suit of clothes. Yes, haven't I said I forgive you? Now, don't worry any more, honey!"

"Well, he is a good man to his wife!" said Mrs. Jarr, with enthusiasm. "It would be a good thing if other men were like him!"

"It isn't what you DO, then, that appeals to a woman? It's what you SAY?" asked Mr. Jarr.

"Why, certainly!" replied Mrs. Jarr, and so it is.

Works Both Ways.

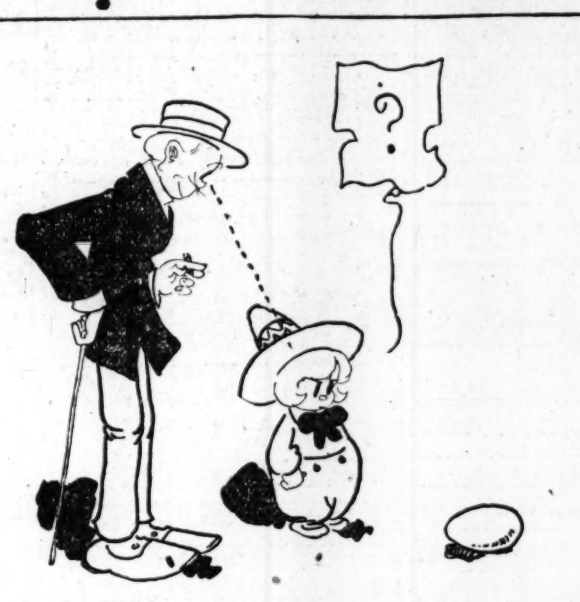

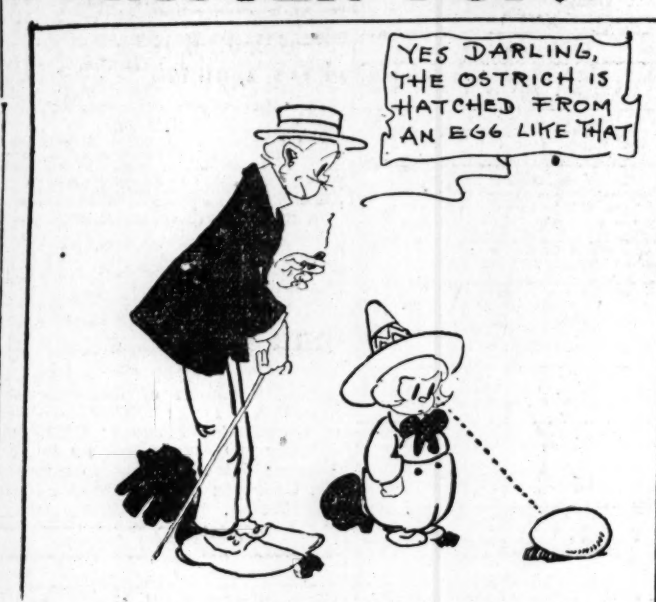

NATIVE: There are the Oldboy twins. They are 38 years old. Stranger: To what do you credit their long lives?

Native: One 'cause he used tobacco and one 'cause he never used it.

Tragic.

THEY became engaged at the seashore, I believe. "Yes, and then he took her out on his yacht and she threw him over."

The Old Place Has Changed

WHERE'S the old blacksmith shop where I picked the hot penny off the anvil?

"The blacksmith organized the Glue-town Garage and Gasoline Corporation, sold the stock and went to Europe."

"Where's the old oaken bucket from which I sipped many a cool draft?"

"The Health Department has it in a glass case as a horrible exhibit."

"What's become of the little red schoolhouse?"

"Mrs. Van Coin bought it to use as a hospital for her Pomeranians."

"How about the common where we used to play our old card game?"

"The Confederate League has bought it and we're going to have a game there as soon as we can get Bill Duffy to jump to us."

"The old tavern is the same, I suppose?"

"No, Billy went out of business rather than cater to the motorist taste for drinks with seven kinds of liquor and vegetables in them."

"The postoffice?"

Don't Ever Let Anyone Tell You This as a New One

THAT town is full of Smiths. "No wonder. There's a Smith Manufacturing Co. there."

Peter's Version.

ON the last day of school prizes were distributed at Peter's school. When the little boy returned home the mother was entertaining callers.

"Well, Peter," asked one of the callers, "did you get a prize?"

"No," replied Peter, "but I got horrible mention."

Dead Give Away.

DID you say these pens were from your own garden?" asked the summer boarder.

"Yes, alree," replied the farmer. "Picked 'em myself early this mornin'."

"Is it necessary to shoot them before you pick them?" inquired the boarder, removing a piece of solder from between his teeth.

Raking It In.

MJIGGERS was a rake before he married, wasn't he?"

"I should say. Cleaned up on a grass widow worth quarter of a million."

A WHOLE lot of grievances are nursed on a bottle.

Country Life.

THERE was a sound as of sundry lumber jacks at work with their axes.

"Is that Joel chopping up kindling, Maria?" asked Jimpson, looking up from his paper.

"No, my dear," replied Mrs. Jimpson, "that is Serey chopping up that steak for hash for breakfast tomorrow."

"More power to her elbow!" sighed Jimpson.

Present Day.

E (passionately): I have loved you madly and long. Will you be mine?

She (calmly): Certainly not. The modern woman is unwilling to add herself to any man's assets. But I would not object to merging our careers and accepting a full partnership in the business.
